MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A fishing boat overturned today while approaching an Atlantic Ocean inlet near Palm Beach, Fla.

First reports to the Miami Coast Guard said three persons died, six were missing and 11 were picked up by rescue craft.

Fears were expressed that the missing persons were trapped under the 65-foot hull of the fishing boat Two Georges.

The information was radioed to Miami Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters from the scene, off Boynton Inlet, where the party boat tipped over inbound.

Racial Violence Continues

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Flames and gunfire crackled in sections of this tense seaport for the second night Tuesday, harshly punctuating racial violence which has killed one person and injured a dozen others.

Fires broke out in several Negro areas. Shotgun charges splattered a school building and a police car.

Rocks and bottles struck several autos, injuring at least one motorist.

Heavily reinforced police details rounded up more than 100 Negroes during the night, raising the total arrests to nearly 350 since Monday's outbreak of violence climaxed several weeks of anti-segregation demonstrations.

More than 20 Negroes and two white youths were charged with carrying firearms. Two Negroes had firebombs.

At least three blazes were attributed to firebombs. Firemen answered about 50 calls—40 of them false alarms.

SEVEN WERE INJURED

At least seven persons were injured during the day and night in various incidents.

Shortly after midnight police reported 74 cases on the court docket. Charges included vandalism, damage to private property, disorderly conduct, possession of firearms and fire bombs, vagrancy and prowling. The collection of weapons seized included several pistols and rifles and a wide variety of knives.

Building Will Obscure St. Paul's

LONDON (UPI)—A throng of nearly 1,000 persons ignored the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral today to protest plans to erect a modern office building which will partially obscure the front of the world-famed church.

A nationwide controversy has erupted over the new building, which is already under construction. But the government has refused to do anything about halting the work, even though when finished the new structure will mar the view of Christopher Wren's great masterpiece of church architecture.

Today's demonstrators carried placards proclaiming such slogans as "admirers of Christopher Wren" and "Save St. Paul's."

Labor party peer Lord Walton told the cheering throng that he would bring the matter up in the House of Lords this afternoon. He called on the government to "leave some amenities" in London.

But the government already has refused to do anything about the 90-foot-tall, eight-story building that will hide the cathedral's western facade—ironically after 12,000 pounds ($33,600) has just been spent cleaning two centuries of London soot and grime from it.

FIREMEN HACK THEIR WAY through roof to get at fire that gutted top floor of City View Apartments, 2640 Cook, this morning. The building, set on a hill, is close to the Protestant Orphanage and from a distance the fire made some people think it was the Orphanage that was ablaze. Cause of the fire, which did about $10,000 damage, is thought to be sparks from a heap of burning rubbish. See story, Page 21. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Family Felled By Gas Fumes?

COLEMAN, Alta. (CP)—Carbon-monoxide poisoning was the cause of the death of at least one of Mayor John Ostash's three children, Coroner F. S. Radford said today.

Coroner Radford said Edward Ostash, 18, who was found dead in the family home Tuesday, died of the odorless gas. Investigation was continuing into the cause of the death of Mary Jane, 12, who died Tuesday in hospital, and Allan, 15, who died in hospital today.

Mayor Ostash, 42, and his wife, Marie, 37, were both in serious condition in hospital. A sixth member of the family, Noella, four months, was in hospital at the time of the tragedy.

Coroner Radford said it was not known where the carbon-monoxide originated.

At first it was believed the family was felled by food poisoning.

GIVEN ANTI-TOXIN

Tuesday night Mr. Ostash, his wife and Allan were given an anti-toxin for botulism, a rare disease in which a powerful toxin is produced by bacteria which contaminate food prior to canning.

Edmund Corson, 49, police chief in the Crownsnest Pass town 70 miles west of Lethbridge, discovered the tragedy.

He climbed in the back window of the Ostash home after being told the mayor had not opened a hotel he operates, the mayor's home telephone was off the hook, nobody answered the door and the mayor's car was parked in front of the house.

Chief Corson said there was a musty smell in the Ostash home when he entered and that his head became "cloudy" when he remained indoors for a short time. He said the family's natural gas furnace was to be checked today by a gas inspector.

Coleman, with a population of about 2,000, is the second largest community in the Crownsnest area. Major industries supporting the town are two coal mines, a natural gas processing plant and a sulphur plant.

U.S. SEEKS TO PREVENT STRAY PLANES

WASHINGTON (AP)—New regulations have been put into effect tightening control of U.S. military plane flights into the NATO area of Europe with the aim of reducing the chance of accidental overflights into Communist territory. It was learned today.

Defence sources disclosed last week that a new positive radar control system, by which each plane can be tracked individually throughout a flight in the zone, would be a primary feature.

Bank Worker Identifies Wasylenchuk

(See story Page 38)

SEATTLE (UPI)—A woman bookkeeper who was in the Greenwood branch of the Seattle First National Bank when it was robbed 10 years ago, today identified John Wasylenchuk as one of the bandits.

Mrs. Mary Kennedy of Seattle pointed out Wasylenchuk as he sat at the defence table with his attorneys. Asked if she saw anyone in the courtroom whom she identified as one of the bandits, Mrs. Kennedy said—"the man in the red necktie" and she pointed to Wasylenchuk who was wearing a tie of that color.

She also identified a picture of Clifford Dawley of Victoria who also has been accused in connection with the robbery.

Royal City Bank Raided

NEW WESTMINSTER (UPI)—A lone bandit today escaped with between $900 and $1,000 in an armed holdup at a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia here.

The bandit entered the bank and forced manager John Adams Hackett and three tellers into the rear of the building. Then he ordered teller Mrs. June Beauchamp to hand over the money.

He took the cash in a bank bag and ran out the door brandishing a nickel-plated, snub-nosed .38-calibre revolver.

'Safety Campaigns A Menace'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The minister of highways for British Columbia says safety campaigns "are not only a bore, they are a menace."

And nothing gets his dander up more than slow drivers. Philip Gagliardi, here on a tourist promotion trip, said in an interview Tuesday:

"The fast driver is the safe driver because he is more alert."

"Lowering speed limits tends to create accidents, raising the limit prevents them," he said.

"Safety campaigns scare the timid and emotionalize danger. Newspapers dramatize the big holiday weekends and death tolls when probably there are fewer accidents per miles driven than any other time."

"Policemen drag out their radar on the big weekends and catch a few hundred drivers going five or 10 miles over the limit and pack up and leave."

"It burns me up to get a ticket like that."

Had the minister of highways received a speeding ticket?

"Yes, I've got them before," he said. "Six, I think."

He's tried to talk his way out of a ticket, but "when they find out who I am, they are more determined than ever to give me one."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

Fifty jumbo postcards of U.S. yachts tied up in the Inner Harbor during last summer's Swiftsure race have been mailed to their owners by Empress Hotel manager Leslie Parkinson.

"The yachtmen were delighted to recognize their craft in this picture," says Mr. Parkinson, "and I have had some enthusiastic letters."

One was from C. William Brasier of Tacoma, Wash., who said he was leaning out of the aft-hatch of his yacht Kialoa when the colored photo was taken.

Mr. Parkinson has just returned from a tourist promotion tour of San Diego, Coronado, Los Angeles (and suburbs), San Francisco and Seattle.

"Many Americans told me they plan to visit Victoria en route to the World's Fair in New York this summer," he said.

Columnist John Robinson of the Hamilton Spectator has written an engaging apology in his paper to Billy Tickle of Victoria.

Seems Robinson was out here in December, sought an interview with Billy, and was told he was dead.

Billy, who had just completed his 36th consecutive Christmas show at the Empress, wrote Robinson saying that his "death," like Mark Twain's, was somewhat exaggerated. He also disclosed that he would pick up his first Old Age Pension cheque later this year.

There are still a great many people around who believe that organ music, however pleasant, is no substitute for the Tickle String Ensemble, which became, by the weirdest alchemy, the Saturday night dance-band: "Billy Tickle and His Ten Tantalizing Toe-Ticklers."

Although sailors aboard the HMCS Fraser had a rough schedule of drills to complete during the last three weeks, they still found time for a chuckle.

Like the time Chaplain William Taylor, 2246 Beach Drive, picked up a ringing telephone in his cabin.

Someone, thinking he had dialled the engineer, asked, "are you going to blow soot this afternoon?"

"No," replied the chaplain, "but I plan to deliver a fiery blast Sunday morning."

The Fraser, St. Laurent and Mackenzie have recently completed a series of exercises titled "Jet 64" with other Commonwealth navies in the Indian Ocean.

Visiting Kyoto, Japan, last September, Mrs. H. C. MacDonald, 1021 Deal Street, Oak Bay, attended a showing of children's paintings in the national museum.

"I met some of the young artists, their parents and art teachers and was given six of their paintings to bring back to Victoria," she said.

"Unfortunately these paintings were destroyed by fire on the Kobe docks, but I am still in touch with one of the families."

"There are two small brothers in this family, both excellent little artists, and they have written asking me to find Canadian boys near their own age to correspond with."

The boys are Takasi Tamaoka, 10, and Akira Tamaoka, 8, and their address is: Nagoakaty, Kaiden Kaminoty 22, Otogunigun, Kyotoku, Japan.

Common Goals In East, West

At heart the people of the Orient share the western concept of a social order based on the "imperishable dignity of man," Avery F. Peterson, U.S. consul-general in Vancouver, said here today.

"What Canada, the United States and the free world want for the free societies of Asia largely coincides with what the people living there want," Mr. Peterson told a meeting of the Canadian Club of Victoria in the Empress Hotel.

He said the central political fact in the Oriental scene is the militant intransigence of the Communist regime which has "fastened itself" on the industrious and skilful Chinese people.

"From the heartland of Asia it threatens by force or subversion to overrun the great civilizations of the Western Pacific."

"Fortunately for us a profound dispute, rages between the two Communist colossi which has unquestionably lessened the immediate Communist threat to bury us."

Mr. Peterson said this historic Sino-Soviet conflict, after an exchange of thousands of words of recrimination, has now reached a harder stage.

Mao's observation that the West is a paper tiger brought a Soviet rejoinder that the paper tiger has nuclear teeth. The Chinese replied with a 16,000-word publication entitled "The leaders of the CPSU are the greatest splitters of our times."

Mr. Peterson said, even if there were no totalitarian threat in the Orient, problems of tremendous dimensions would

DEs Take Everything In the Navy's Book

Destroyer-escorts HMCS Fraser, St. Laurent and Mackenzie have had almost everything in the naval exercise book thrown at them in rapid succession during the past 19 days.

The ships are representing the Royal Canadian Navy in "Jet 64," one of the largest Commonwealth Fleet exercises ever held in peacetime.

The training program, held in the Indian Ocean, during the first three weeks in March, involved 30 warships and 10,000 men from the navies of Britain, Canada, Australia, India and New Zealand.

4,500 MILES
The Canadian ships were involved in more than 70 exercises and logged more than 4,500 miles.

The gruelling exercise program was designed to test offensive and defensive capabilities of the ships in both conventional and nuclear warfare.

Drills ranged from aircraft attacks, shore bombardments and anti-submarine exercises to convoy screening, plane-guard duties and replenishment at sea.

Exercises didn't stop even when ships were at anchor for periods.

ST. LAURENT LEFT
On these occasions, communications workouts were staged between ships, and fleet defences were tested against attack by small surface craft, saboteurs and divers.

The St. Laurent detached from the squadron March 17 to continue her around-the-world voyage.

Following their roles in "Jet 64" the Fraser and Mackenzie proceeded to Singapore for a four-day stop-over which included post-exercise briefings, sports events and shore leave.

The ships are scheduled to arrive in Hong Kong Saturday and proceed from there to Kure (April 11) and Tokyo (April 17).

The destroyer-escorts will leave Japan April 22 and are due back at Esquimalt May 6.

FLEET

is not the negative action of cancelling the military expenditure, but the positive requirement of replacing it with a more constructive program," the brief said.

The brief said that the latest figures available showed that only 2 per cent of the total import and export of dry cargo in 1961 was handled by ships of Canadian registry. It compared with 4.3 per cent in 1953 and 20.2 per cent in 1947.

WANT SUBSIDY INCREASED

Another recommendation of the brief was that the present federal construction assistance subsidy for ships built in Canada be increased from 35 to 40 per cent. It said this would "stimulate Canadian shipowners to order new ships in this country at prices approximately equal to those which could be obtained in the United Kingdom."

It also urged study and adoption of legislation to "constantly" help Canadian shipowners, Canadian seamen and shipyard workers as well as suppliers of materials, components and equipment.

Another recommendation was that legislation be adopted to permit Canadian shipowners to replace obsolete ships with new fast ships which could compete with foreign ships.

It urged an amendment to the Customs Act "to compel the payment of a 50 per cent ad valorem by all ocean-going merchant ships" which make use of foreign shipyards for repairs when they were not necessary.

DON'T LIKE AGREEMENT

The final recommendation of the brief was that the British Commonwealth shipping agreement of 1931 be denounced to protect Canadian ship owners against competition from ships registered in other parts of the British Commonwealth.

The brief said this agreement allows British ships to work the Canadian coastal trade, the only restriction being if they are not British-built vessels they must obtain a licence and pay a percentage fee on repairs made in a foreign country.

The brief said this agreement allows British ships to work the Canadian coastal trade with the only restriction being that they must not be British-built.

It complained that the agreement "constitutes a great and serious danger for the future of our coasting trade which personifies at the present time the only merchant fleet we have."

It said the reason shipbuilders have not taken advantage of the subsidy on ocean-going ship construction was because of the failure of the government to provide suitable operational subsidies as part of an overall transportation policy and the failure to keep the technology of the industry abreast with rapidly advancing world trend.

POOL RESOURCES, SAYS REALTOR

Centennial Parkway Urged From Swartz Bay Into City

Construction of a parkway from Swartz Bay to Victoria as a 1967 centennial project has been recommended by Victoria realtor P. D. P. Holmes.

In a talk to the Gyro Club at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Holmes said a parkway from the northern tip of the Saanich Peninsula to Dallas Road would give Victoria "a new front door."

He suggested local political areas should pool their resources in Canada's centennial year to create a single outstanding project.

"The Inner Harbor, once the front door to the capital region, contributed largely to the world-wide reputation enjoyed by Victoria as a place that is charming and different," Mr. Holmes said.

CONGA LINE
"Now only a few of our visitors arrive in the heart of the region. The vast majority of the 1,000,000 who came last year and those who will come conga-line shuffle to Swartz Bay and Sidney."

"First impressions are strong impressions and lasting impressions," Mr. Holmes continued.

By the year 2000 when this area is expected to have a population of 350,000, you could have a 30-mile-an-hour speed limit all the way to the ferry through a jungle of commercialism, stop lights and patches of homes lining the highway.

"This is looking to the future at its conceivable worst."

Mr. Holmes said he is confident that local governments can discard "petty parochialism" because the elected representatives are "broader-minded than they are often given credit for and look to the needs of us all."

The parkway proposal, he said, meets every specification laid down for a centennial project and is likely to win popular and political support.

1,000 ACRES NEEDED
Mr. Holmes said about 1,000 acres would be needed for the parkway.

"Much of the most valuable property is already owned by the various governments which would be involved," he declared.

These properties include the city-owned Elk-Beaver Lake, the federal government's Saanich experimental farm and other smaller parcels flanking the highway.

The division, with a frequency of 1.85, won the group "B" award for plants which worked in excess of 700,000 man-hours.

Tahsis Co., of Port Alberni, with a frequency of nil, won the group "F" award for plants which worked between 50,000 to 100,000 man-hours.

Mayo Lumber was the third winner. It won the group "G" award with a frequency of nil, for 30,000 to 50,000 man-hours.

John D. Fails To Arouse MPs

OTTAWA (CP)—Despite one of the most rousing speeches of the session, Progressive Conservative Leader Diefenbaker Tuesday night failed to rally other opposition parties to his cause and his party's non-confidence motion in the minority Liberal government was swamped.

Only the 80 Conservative members present supported the motion that charged the government with failing to control rising expenditures and with running up substantial deficits in spite of increased taxation.

The 150-member force of 111 Liberal, 17 New Democrat, 13 Creditist and nine Social Credit MPs easily defeated the sixth non-confidence vote of the session.

Today, the Commons was scheduled to consider supplementary spending estimates and interim supply, measures the government wants passed before the Easter recess which begins Thursday night. The budget debate will be resumed after Parliament reconvenes April 6.

Earlier in Tuesday's budget debate, Finance Minister Gordon defended his 1963 budget for providing "powerful stimulants" to the economic growth of Canada. The effects of these measures were still being felt. Unemployment was still too high, "but at least the curve is moving downward."

A vote for the non-confidence motion, he said, would be a vote against extended family allowances for 16- and 17-year-olds who are in school as announced in the budget.

When Mr. Diefenbaker followed, he blasted the government for its record of "fiscal irresponsibility," and said it has run out of steam.

'CONFIDENCE GONE'

There was nothing in the budget for the wage-earner except more taxes. It was a "phenomena" budget; it couldn't be explained by logic. The Canadian government had lost the confidence of the Canadian people.

Paul Martineau (PC—Pontiac-Temascamungue) said the budget was an "affront to the provinces." It gave no indication of how provincial demands would be met and it was useless to talk about co-operative federalism without indicating how it could be achieved.

Transit Firms Geared

Extra runs have been planned for ferries, buses and planes to cope with the heavy movement expected to and from the island this Easter weekend.

B.C. Ferries will step up the two-hour service to hourly sailings between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen March 26-31 and April 3-5.

Sailings will be from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m.

On the Nanaimo run there will be extra sailings from Horseshoe Bay at 10 a.m., 2, 6 and 10 p.m. A ferry will leave from Departure Bay every hour 7 a.m. to 9 p.m. except for 10 a.m. and 2 and 6 p.m. sailings.

Buses will leave Douglas St. terminal for Swartz Bay hourly from 6:10 p.m. to 9:10 p.m.

Extra sections will be added to TCA flights to Vancouver and Seattle as they are needed.

Bookings are reported to be heavy to Seattle Friday and Saturday, and to Vancouver Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

REFUSED ENTRY into Canada to attend a convention of the Communist Party of Canada in Toronto next week-end is Leonid Ilyichev, a secretary of the central committee of the Soviet party.

WHY EXEMPT TIME, READER'S DIGEST?

Foreign Publications Bill Meets Growing Opposition

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Opposition to the Liberal government's proposed periodical legislation under which Time and Reader's Digest would be left to publish their Canadian editions is mounting on Parliament Hill.

Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker in the Commons Tuesday night during the budget debate criticized the proposed measure. He asked whether or not Time and Reader's Digest should be absorbed from the general legislative enactment respecting United States magazines and other foreign magazines which are brought into Canada particularly for advertising purposes.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson said today his group in the Commons would firmly oppose the bill. He said the proposed legislation would not help periodicals in Canada because it did not go far enough in meeting their problems.

Tuesday night editions of the Ottawa Journal and Ottawa Citizen carried full page advertisements headed: "Why the Special Privilege?" The advertisement was paid for by the Montreal Star Company and the Montreal Standard Publishing Company, it was stated at the bottom of the page.

Bill Will 'Enshrine Injustice'

The advertisement noted that the recent O'Leary royal commission on publications found that Canadian periodicals "faced unfair and perhaps ruinous competition from foreign periodicals publishing so-called Canadian editions. These 'foreign publications' are Time and Reader's Digest. What does the government propose to do about this situation?"

"It proposes, if the legislation outlined in the Commons goes through unchanged, to enshrine this injustice in Canadian periodical publishing, instead of simply treating them as all other American, English and French magazines are to be treated. While these magazines will be unable to publish Canadian editions, Time and Reader's Digest will continue to do so."

The Toronto Daily Star carried a cartoon on its editorial page Tuesday. It purported to show a front page of Time magazine with an unflattering caricature of Prime Minister Pearson. In the background was the Parliament Building and a Stars and Stripes ribbon wrapped around the Peace Tower. The caption was "We Like Mike; But We're Leery of O'Leary."

Stars and Stripes Pat Mike on Head

A hand was patting Mr. Pearson on the head and the shirt cuff around the wrist was the Stars and Stripes. Across one corner of the "Time" cover in the cartoon was a label reading "Pearson's biography."

Festival Colorama Under Way

Victoria Flower Festival goes on today and Thursday. The "grass roots" of the festival today and Thursday.

Beaumaris Bulb Farm is open to the public, and today and Thursday a special West Saanich bus trip is taking visitors to the acres of daffodils and other blooms.

The farm is at 9620 West Saanich Road. The bus Thursday leaves the coach lines depot at noon, continues past the turning point at Brenta Lodge to the farm.

A return trip leaves at 4:25 p.m.

There are 500,000 bulbs of 135 types at the farm.

Women should not wear high heels—but there's a consolation in the form of tea.

Beaumaris Bulb Farm will be open until the end of summer.

Ferry Repairs Force Change In Schedules

New Nations — New Needs

THE GENEVA MEETING OF some 120 nations which began this week to study problems of economics and trade is not a prelude to the GATT conference which will open May 3. It is a United Nations gathering, twice as large as the GATT membership, which hopes to solve some of the difficulties facing the poorer countries. As UN Secretary-General U Thant points out, a large part of the world which is described as "developing" is not developing at all, or with unsatisfactory slowness.

The poorer nations see the GATT meetings as primarily a concern of the larger industrial powers, which seek to increase their trade with each other through tariff negotiations. What the less developed countries want is better arrangements for trade with each other and with the richer nations, and particularly they want access to rich-country markets for their manufactured goods.

This is a legitimate ambition and one to which the more fortunate nations will have to give heed. There is little purpose, in aiding African or Asian countries to independence, giving or lending them capital to develop their resources, and then refusing to buy their products. The result of such a situation can only be increasing resentment on the part of a large section of the world against the "have" nations, and the loss to human betterment of millions of man-hours of labor.

On the simplest basis of self-interest, it is obvious that the undeveloped countries cannot become expanding markets for the highly-developed producers if some of the new countries' products are not also sold abroad.

It is this problem which the Geneva talks will try to unravel over the next several months. It is a basic world problem for which a solution will soon have to be found. The Kennedy Round talks later this spring will be important and cannot be dissociated from those which began on Monday. But they might be said to deal with prosperity, while today's Geneva discussions deal with survival—a much more elemental urge.

Fact of the Matter

WHAT ARE SOME OF THE major problems bothering Canadians today? Sectionalism, anti-American feelings, concern over inflation, over the advance of mechanization, over the need for more people to populate the vast reaches of this land?

There is nothing new in all this, we were reminded in an address by Mr. J. Allyn Taylor, president of Canada Trust-Huron and Erie, at the company's 100th annual meeting in London, Ontario, the other day.

Mr. Taylor, who is a frequent and well-known visitor to Victoria, noted that his company had devoted considerable time to the study of conditions in Canada 100 years ago as a prelude to the centenary meeting this year. "The most striking thing that came out of the study... is that virtually all the problems and fears that bothered thinking people in Canada a century ago are still with us," he declared.

After living with these problems for a hundred years and more, there seems to be little reason to think that they suddenly threaten disaster to the country as some people believe these days.

As Mr. Taylor noted, in the past century Canadians have increased their standard of living four-fold and achieved "a greater improvement in economic well-being—than has taken place in almost any other country you might name in the past 2,000 years."

Without minimizing the seriousness of many of the problems which Canada has lived with since before Confederation, and accepting that solutions must still be sought, it is worthwhile now and again to put them into perspective, as Mr. Taylor has done.

Against the Odds

FURTHER EVIDENCE THAT the more a man has learned through formal education, the more he will earn in his chosen occupation, comes from a new report based on the 1961 census by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

The bureau's report shows that male workers in the 45 to 54 age group with a university degree or some university training earned on the average a little more than twice as much as male workers with no high school education. The university-trained men also had higher earnings than those with high school training in the past-25 age group.

For all men and women over 25 years of age, in fact, the report illustrates the direct impact of education on earnings, with the better educated persons taking home the larger pay cheques.

This is the positive side of the argument in favor of young people adding to their education as much as they possibly can. The negative side—one which should give pause to the young people who are thinking about dropping out of high school—is that seven per cent of working Canadians without high school education earned less than $1,000 in 1961, 20 per cent earned less than $2,000 and only 12 per cent earned $6,000 or more.

The potential drop-outs should also realize that these bare statistics tell only part of the story of what is ahead for the person who is ill-equipped with formal knowledge to take a job in an increasingly complex world. They don't take note of the fact, for instance, that for the most part it is the dull, repetitive tasks which fall to those who have little education. These are the jobs, furthermore, which are rapidly and in large numbers being eliminated by automation—and the job-holders with them.

Of course it is still possible for a bright, imaginative, hard-working youngster to quit half-way through high school and make his way far up the financial scale. But the odds are against it and they are increasing all the time.

Compensation for Jurymen

A MODEST MOVE WAS MADE at the recent session of the legislature to improve the compensation paid to persons selected to serve on juries.

Jurors will now receive $10 a day instead of $8 and the money will be paid to them as income-tax-free expenses rather than as a taxable fee.

Even with this increase, however, it is inevitable that for many persons serving on a jury will entail financial sacrifices which they may not well be able to afford. In the case of an hourly-paid worker earning $2 an hour, for instance, there could be a loss of upwards of $40 in earnings during a week's service on a jury. In the event of a trial lasting many weeks, a not uncommon event, the loss in earnings could be reckoned in the hundreds of dollars.

It seems only reasonable, particularly since loss of income is one of the reasons which is not acceptable as an excuse for not serving on a jury, that the fee be set at least in line with average earnings in the province.

Higher fees might even produce better juries by allowing them to concentrate on the case being heard without the distraction of worries over how the household bills are going to be met.

A Detriment to What?

MR. CASSIUS CLAY HAD VIRTUALLY mouthed his way into general public disaffection before "Sonny" Liston quit in their world championship bout last month and the hysterical former Olympic light-heavyweight champion declared "I am king—I am the greatest."

Nothing Mr. Clay has done in the month since that controversial event in Miami has tended to foster public affection for him.

It is dismaying, moreover, to hear of deals made before the fight which allegedly assure Liston, the loser, a very large share of the proceeds from Clay's first title defence.

But unless such arrangements are illegal, or unless it is proved that the actual fight was crooked, is there any sense in talking about relieving Clay of his championship?

In the present—and recent—state of the professional fighting business, what kind of nonsense is it to urge such action on the grounds that Clay is "a detriment to the boxing world" and "a poor example to the youth of the world"?

The purifiers have come a little late to the Augean stables.

Uncovering an Ancient History and Siege

By PATRICK O'DONOVAN

THE tragic rock fortress of Masada is slowly yielding its treasures and secrets. This is the high and lonely place where the Jewish rebels against Rome made their last hopeless stand and where, in A.D. 73, they committed mass suicide rather than submit to the encircling Legion.

The excavation, headed by Professor Yigael Yadin, has lately taken a new direction. The biggest finds have been made not in the palaces, which show signs of having been efficiently looted by the Byzantines, but in the Herodian wall that crowns the top of the rock. This wall, collapsed by time and earthquake, contains some 140 small rooms which were inhabited by the rebel Zealots who occupied the fortress place in A.D. 66.

They were not made for ordinary living, but the Zealots added rough partitions and stoves and used capitals from the palaces as stools and tables in order to make them homelike. They also built a group of ritual baths and appear to have turned one room into a synagogue. It is lined with rising tiers of mud and stone benches. It is orientated towards Jerusalem. It contained an inscribed sherd that referred to the "priestly title" and, if it can be proved to be a synagogue, it will compete with the one recently found at Ostia as the oldest in existence.

Half the working force of 220 is now on this wall. They have found hundreds of household objects, baskets, wooden combs, a gold ring for a baby's finger, cosmetic bottles, spoons, dried fruits and nuts, clothing, some 200 arrows, buckles and many inscribed shards, a pair of dice, one of which seems to have been loaded. They have also found some 750 coins. Three of these are of the fifth year of the Jewish revolt, which was the year of the destruction of the temple. Only six others are known to exist.

The work at Masada is being done by a spectacular band of Israeli and foreign volunteers. On the job they look a tough and villainous crew. Washed and combed in the camp at the foot of the rock they look young and attractive. They appear outrageously healthy and happy. The nights are bitter. The food is spartan. They work from sunup to sundown and are not paid. It is impossible to tell the nationalities apart, though the English tend to be more bearded. And the English contingent has been spectacularly lucky in finding first the half of a magnificent mosaic pavement with stylized fruits and flowers in a geometric setting which is probably the oldest in Israel, and a "Dead Sea Scroll" in one of the rooms in the wall.

This has started a minor scholastic war. The scroll is highly sectarian and of the sort found at Qumran. This settlement on the Dead Sea is usually accepted as a sort of monastery of the Essene sect, a mystical, pacifist and sex-abjuring group who bear a superficial resemblance to primitive Christianity.

The defenders of Masada were known to be Zealots, a fierce sect that accepted only God as the ruler of Israel. How, then, was an Essene scroll left at Masada? Professor Cecil Roth of Oxford insists that Qumran was a Zealot settlement.

Professor Yadin suggests that after the destruction of Qumran in A.D. 70, some Essenes joined the only surviving Jewish fortress at Masada. And he quotes Josephus who mentions John the Essene as one of the leaders of the revolt. The contest between the two ideas has begun in the English-language Jerusalem Post with an icy and devastating politeness. It is likely to stir Hebrew scholars for a long time to come.

Masada is being reconstructed in the process of excavation. Masons are erecting the walls shaken down by earthquakes. The rows of stonework are rising again and their charred beams have been found where they fell at the last suicidal burning of the citadel. Vast quantities of pottery have been found in the ruins.

Herod's mad, little, three-tiered palace hanging out over the abyss, where the paranoid King could feel safe from his subjects and God like above a view of the world at its most empty and desolate, has been cleared. Dizzying paths lead across the face of the rock. And wall paintings that imitate marble have been found there of a high Victorian vulgarity.

In the ruins of a heated bath near the lowest palace, three skeletons were found of a man, woman, and child. The woman, estimated at 20 years' old, still had her hair plaited, brown and lustrous, and around her were the pieces of a set of scale armour, little silvered-bronze lappets that were once sown to a tunic. The splendor of the armour suggests that the man may have been the commander of the place.

In a cave on the cliff face, 20 skeletons have been found, among them a foetus. These were probably the bodies of Zealots dumped here by the victorious Romans. The Jewish Rabbinate in Israel is anxious to accord them religious burial.

Hundreds of Roman slingshots, hand-rounded balls of stone the size of grapefruit, were found piled around one of the rooms that hangs above the way to the great cisterns inside the rock. These were hurled at the defenders by the Roman siege engines and were probably amassed to throw back at the Romans when they tried to use the waterways on the cliff face as a line of approach.

In the three months of excavation, the top of the rock has been transformed. It will undoubtedly become one of Israel's major tourist attractions, though it cannot wholly please visitors with a tendency to vertigo. But its supreme importance is a learned one.

Because the date of the occupation and fall is so precisely documented, almost anything on the rock can be dated accurately within 20 years. This precise knowledge will be invaluable to scholars interested in such diverse things as calligraphy, pottery, the art of warfare, textiles, ivory, coins, the ordinary objects of everyday life at the time of the fall of the temple. This is an excavation which has about it a curious sense of excitement. The devoted attitude of the volunteers is a sign of it. And when they have finished with this high place, they will have left the world just a little richer.

FROM OTTAWA

By MAURICE WESTERN

Japan Trade Perspective

THE CANADIAN Apparel and Textile Manufacturers' Association, known affectionately to its members as CATMA, is urging the government to negotiate new quotas for Japanese exports of clothing and textiles to this country. Mr. D. Rosenbloom, the executive director of CATMA, sets forth the position of the industry in a letter addressed to members of the Press Gallery. In the absence of any indication that this communication is secret, confidential, or hush-hush, it seems a reasonable assumption that Mr. Rosenbloom is anxious to share his thoughts with the general public.

The first point made in the letter is that Japanese textile exports to Canada have increased from a value of $5 millions in 1954 (the year of the first Canadian-Japanese trade treaty) to $31 millions in 1963.

This may well be true and simple arithmetic indicates that this trade has expanded 6.1 times in the period mentioned. Mr. Rosenbloom disapproves of the trend.

According to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, Canadian exports to Japan in 1954 were valued at $19,197,000. The value last year was $296,009,645. This is almost a 15-fold expansion. In all the years since 1954 our sales to Japan have vastly exceeded our purchases from that country. There is nothing in Mr. Rosenbloom's letter to indicate that he has reflected on these altogether heartening figures.

The second substantial point in the letter is that despite the "voluntary" quotas invented by Mr. Fleming, there has been an overall increase and moreover "the Japanese are continually moving into areas not controlled by quotas." Mr. Rosenbloom fails to note that this is exactly what the Japanese were supposed to do. If he cares to turn back to successive official statements on this subject, he will find that the government, in imposing this discriminatory policy upon the Japanese, had no thought of restricting Japanese-Canadian trade. Its notion was that in a few selected items on which domestic producers were notably sensitive, increases should be limited to stated proportions—5 or 10 per cent a year—in the interests of "orderly trade." But the government, in its anxiety to keep our foreign customers happy, positively encouraged the Japanese to go to work on non-quota items.

Wants More Quotas

Mr. Rosenbloom, disturbed by some of the consequences of the policy, wants more quotas. He is particularly alarmed by Japanese exports of worsted fabrics which now account for 7 per cent of the Canadian market.

One of the troubles with these worsteds is that people like them. Moreover, the Canadian customer may well be right. As Mr. Rosenbloom says: "Japan is selling fine qualities at such low prices that they provide a 'British' quality at the same or lower prices than Canadian constructions."

Fine quality at low prices! Every reader will readily appreciate the gravity of the Japanese offence. This is a far cry from the old days when the Canadian textile lobby stood ready at a moment's notice to defend us against shoddy goods imported from nefarious, low-wage countries.

An indication of the sufferings of the Canadian industry may be seen in the DBS figures for shipments of all-wool worsted cloth. These rose from $17,663,000 in 1939 to $19,467,000 in 1961. While no later official figures are available, Mr. Rosenbloom says that "the market position of the Canadian worsted industry has improved during the past three years." However, he complains that domestic mills still supply only 65 per cent of the fabrics sold here.

Consumers will be alarmed to read that a "new wave of Japanese reduced prices hit the market a few months ago." Until that time "it was primarily the English mills which were affected." But now Canadian mills are feeling the competition and expect to be rescued from it by the Government.

Comparisons

It may be noted for comparative purposes that total imports of Japanese worsteds and serges in 1963 were $2,496,462. The Wheat Board sold to Japan 44,625,158 bushels of wheat or wheat equivalent in crop year 1962-63 with the Vancouver price steadily above $2 a bushel.

Mr. Rosenbloom also worries, and obviously expects the Government to worry, about imports of man-made fabrics from Japan. He is particularly appalled by the percentage increases, 55 per cent from 1961 to 1962; 68 per cent from 1962 to 1963. But percentages are notoriously frightening when one starts with a low volume. Such imports for 1963 were valued by DBS at $4,848,400. Unfortunately no figures for Canadian shipments of synthetics are available but they were rising from 1939 through 1961, in which year they reached a value of $87,021,000 (Japanese imports $2,179,837).

While most people, on considering these representations, will stop short of panic, the textile lobby never does. It has discovered with a sense of outrage that some other countries are even more restrictive than we are.

The Japanese, incidentally, do not trade; they "penetrate" and it ought to be obvious to any consumer interested in paying higher prices for his worsteds and man-made fibres that the Government should put an end to this pernicious practice by imposing more "voluntary" quotas on the people who buy our wheat.

Opposition Understandable

Speaking in opposition to Hansard, the MLA for Esquimalt has argued that what is important is the debates in the House, not the placing of them into the record for public consumption.

As one who pays frequent visits to the public gallery, I must confess I'm sometimes nonplussed at the extent of Mr. Bruch's contributions. Seldom does he appear to be listening to what is being said, much less taking part in the debate. For a member once touted as likely cabinet material in the Social Credit Government his utterances when he does speak seem to reflect a singularly juvenile orientation. That he is against having an official record for the public to peruse is probably understandable under the circumstances.

TRADE UNIONIST.

'Class of Juveniles'

I am a Grade 11 student at Belmont High School in Sooke School District No. 62. On Wednesday, March 18, a few friends and I went to the afternoon session of the legislature at the Parliament Buildings in Victoria.

A bill which came up while I was there concerned the introduction of a Hansard. The member who proposed the bill put forward some facts and figures in favor of a Hansard and left himself open to opposition or support. One or two members supported him and then some opposition arose.

It was not, however, the issue in debate which concerned me. It was the attitude of the members of the assembly. This attitude both shocked and disgusted me.

As a student I am constantly reminded of the need for future education. My teachers and parents have told me that in order to obtain and hold a good-paying, secure job that I will enjoy for my life's work I will need a formal education of not less than junior matriculation.

As I sat and listened to and watched the actions of the members of the legislative assembly I began to wonder what an education had done for the members as individuals. While a member was attempting to support or oppose the issue at hand there was a constant heckling, thumping, and many audible but not understandable remarks made by the assembly.

Many of the men and women appeared to be not paying any attention at all to what was being said or were laughing or smiling to themselves. At times they would make a small joke out loud or whisper behind their hands to a neighbor. The scene reminded me of a class of juveniles harassing an inexperienced teacher. I would not have been too surprised if paper airplanes and pea-shooters had been added to the scene.

I ask you and all my fellow citizens, are these the rightful actions of the supposedly responsible men and women elected by the people and in whose hands rests the future of our province and even our country?

'Glad to Know You, But I Don't'

MY FRIEND, who came here from Holland some years ago and has since received his Canadian citizenship, has his philosophical moments. He shared a few of them with me. I think they bear repetition because they may reflect a problem common to others trying to set down roots here.

"I was sipping a little wine the other night," he explained. "And I began to think of how it was with me since I came here. I am a new Canadian and I am proud of it. This is a young country. The people are friendly and a man can go places. He can move up, and really become a Canadian."

"The wine I was drinking pleased me. It had a name that was spelled differently but sounded like Kelowna and I wondered if the place where it was made was named after Kohn or Cologne by earlier settlers. I don't know. But there's a lot I don't know about this country and this province. And there's a lot that puzzles me."

"Take this conflict between the French Canadians and the rest. Do they mean by 'the rest' only the English Canadians? Do they mean me? Or am I the only Canadian? I'm bilingual—speak Dutch and German and some English."

"It's funny, but the more I think about Canadian government, Canadian political parties, the country's laws, the customs, the language, the likes and dislikes, the dos and the don'ts, the less I seem to know, at least from a Canadian point of view."

"Back home it was different. I understood and I felt I could place a man, make a good estimate of his background, recognize something of his character if I drank a glass of wine or two with him and talked."

"Just this business of drinking wine does that make me a 'vino'? Or is it a kind of refinement to drink wine? I should inquire about that. If I were home I wouldn't have to ask. I'd know. Over here I'm not sure, and part of the reason for not being sure is that I'm a little uncertain about the meanings of words."

HOME GARDEN

Man Must Dig to Fulfill Destiny

Just about this time of year—even the least interested among us is likely to get ideas of doing something constructive with a bare plot of ground.

The urge may be due to the flowering trees and shrubs already to be seen everywhere on the boulevards, or to the masses of daffodils and tulips blooming in the neighbors' gardens.

Or maybe it is due to the elemental fact of the passage of the vernal equinox, and man must dig in the soil to fulfill his destiny.

What may be planted after the digging is anyone's guess. Some of us will feel that food comes first, and the planting will consist of fruit trees, berries and the more lowly potatoes.

Seeds of quick-growing vegetables will be sown with great expectations. Fortu-

"That's the trouble, I think. Maybe I don't speak the language. Maybe I just memorize words and use them somehow to express myself. But are the words I use expressing what I mean?"

"Here 'yes' means 'ja', but 'ja' does not always mean 'yes'. 'Yes' can mean 'what do you want' if somebody behind the counter in a store says it to you. And if I'm slipshod with my mouth muscles, it comes out 'jazz', which is modern dance music."

"I've got to be careful, the way I pronounce words, or the real Canadians will think me stupid. Sometimes it's better not to talk at all. The other day I was taken for Scottish because, a stranger told me, I said 'good' like a Scotsman."

"It's funny, I can't detect accents in people who speak English. No accent, no flavor, no 'schwung'. All I catch is words, which I decipher as rapidly as I can into messages and meaning."

"Back home I didn't do that. I talked and listened—and there was melody in the words and sentences. That's something important that I had to leave behind."

"With me, here, the melody is gone. I listen to understand, not to catch the tone. If I just listen for the tone, I can catch the melody, but the meaning gets away. So far I can't assimilate both. I'll have to stand in the back row of the chorus and hum along, hoping nobody will notice, or mind, that when I get the tune I'm not getting the words."

"I suggested to my friend that this was usual, that you generally mastered both the melody and the vocabulary of a language only if you learned it at your mother's knee. He agreed, to a point. At the same time he explained his difficulty in coming to close understanding with what he called 'real Canadians'. When he used words like building blocks to convey thought he wasn't quite sure that the words were exactly what he needed to convey his impression."

"We who weren't born to this tongue pick up the phrases," he said. "We say 'It's funny' when we don't mean it's humorous at all. 'It's funny' means to us that we don't understand a reaction, or the way native Canadians treat a certain situation. I wonder if it would be funny if, when I was introduced to a Canadian I replied: 'So glad to know you, but I don't'."

Man Must Dig to Fulfill Destiny

Just about this time of year—even the least interested among us is likely to get ideas of doing something constructive with a bare plot of ground.

The urge may be due to the flowering trees and shrubs already to be seen everywhere on the boulevards, or to the masses of daffodils and tulips blooming in the neighbors' gardens.

Or maybe it is due to the elemental fact of the passage of the vernal equinox, and man must dig in the soil to fulfill his destiny.

What may be planted after the digging is anyone's guess. Some of us will feel that food comes first, and the planting will consist of fruit trees, berries and the more lowly potatoes.

Seeds of quick-growing vegetables will be sown with great expectations. Fortunately such gardens have their beauty too, for who can dispute the swiftly passing charm of fruit trees in bloom, or the color harmonies in shades of green in the vegetable rows?

Others of us will be content with a couple of shade trees and a tough piece of turf for the creation of a true family outdoor rumpus room.

I have seen many a country home in other parts of Canada where not a cultivated flower was added to a garden area, shaded perhaps by a giant maple or two or an elm.

When the children are grown up and gone, the place can charm by its peaceful simplicity, and the presence of a favorite shrub or two added through the years to bring a little color and fragrance.

Today's powered grass cutters make for ease of maintenance in such an area, and one's imagination is the only limit in carrying out a simple scheme to make it entirely satisfactory over a number of years with a minimum of effort expended.

Individual Check-Off For Politics

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative party has proposed legislation requiring union members to "check in" if they wish to have union dues checked off for support of a political party.

The proposal is contained in a "white paper" on party policy for the April 22 election campaign.

The white paper says legislation requiring individual union members to specify that their dues should be checked off for a political party would "ensure that the right of every Saskatchewan resident to support the party of his choice has been safeguarded."

H. S. Elkin, deputy Saskatchewan labor minister, said Saskatchewan has no legislation regarding checkoffs. He said conceivably a union could decide by majority vote that a portion of the dues paid by all members would be used to support a certain political party.

Marijuana Trafficker Jailed for Two Years

MOST INTENSE SINCE INDEPENDENCE

Anti-British Feeling Grows In India

By RUKMINI DEVI

Canadian Press Correspondent

BOMBAY (CP)—Strong anti-British feeling, the most intense since Britain gave up this sub-continent more than 16 years ago, is developing in India.

Indians of all political parties have been angered by Britain's stand in a recent UN Security Council debate on Kashmir, the big state claimed by both India and Pakistan, and by what is described here as the British cabinet's "partiality towards Pakistan" on the Hindu-Muslim religious issue.

British diplomats and businessmen in India are reported disturbed by the developments.

For the first time, many top leaders of the ruling Congress party have spoken bitterly about "Britain's utter lack of sympathy or understanding for India."

Members of the ruling party have joined Socialist and Communist MPs in demanding that India quit the Commonwealth rather than put up with what K. D. Malaviya, until recently a minister in the Nehru cabinet, described as "the British Tories' unabashed attempt to put us in the dock every time Kashmir comes up in the United Nations."

Observers noted that even sober, generally pro-West ruling party politician like Lal Bahadur Shastri, minister without portfolio and Nehru's chief troubleshooter, recently spoke angrily about Britain's official attitude.

What seems to have particularly displeased Indians is the speech of the British representative in the United Nations holding India and Pakistan equally guilty of maltreatment of religious minorities.

Mahomed Ali Jinnah, India's Muslim education minister who represented his country at the UN debate, said that by totally ignoring what the Indian government had been doing for the protection of the minorities the British government had taken a "highly partisan" attitude.

Many Indian commentators have suggested that in Indian eyes the Commonwealth has lost much of its magic.

Observers feel that if the present situation is not handled by London and New Delhi with greater tact and understanding a real threat to India's membership in the Commonwealth may develop.

Indians have drawn some comfort from a statement by George Brown, deputy leader of the British Labor party, that labor stood for British disentanglement from the Kashmir dispute.

A scholar of the Indian Council of World Affairs, M. S. Rajan, has chastized Indians for their anti-Commonwealth talk.

Pointing out that the Commonwealth is no longer a "British proprietary interest," Rajan said it was wrong to threaten to leave the Commonwealth every time there is a disagreement with the British government, and asked how Indians would react if Britain threatened to leave the Commonwealth every time it disapproved of some action by the Indian government.

Political circles here said Canadian diplomats in New Delhi were at one stage perturbed about the worsening Indo-British relations.

Some pro-West Indian politicians think that Canada could play a key role in easing the existing tensions between London and New Delhi.

The Canadian government's neutral attitude on Kashmir and other India-Pakistan disputes has been noted here with interest and appreciation.

HOSPITAL DISPUTE

Cost Shuffle Opposed

Redistribution of hospital construction costs in the lower Vancouver Island area is rejected by Saanich Reeve Stanley Murphy.

The concept, suggested by B.C. Hospital Insurance Service, is "diametrically opposed" to municipal thinking in Saanich, the reeve told Saanich health and welfare committee.

A. W. E. Pitkethley, manager of hospital construction and planning, suggested to Greater Victoria municipal leaders a meeting to talk over long-range hospital construction and service objectives.

A uniform method of supporting hospital construction in the area is seen by the reeve as a "pushing off responsibility to the municipalities."

"If we have any part of this I shall be much disturbed," he said.

Coun. Joseph Casey pointed out the hospitals support the suggestion, and Mr. Murphy replied they like it because it would end the system of municipal grants, where hospitals go "cap in hand" asking for money.

The reeve said school and welfare costs should not be charged to land and improvements, but be borne by the senior government.

Two weeks ago, Victoria Mayor R. B. Wilson welcomed the proposal because under the present system the urban areas pay the bulk of capital construction costs although more than 25 per cent of the patient load at Royal Jubilee and St. Joseph's Hospitals comes from unrepresented or unorganized areas.

Coun. Casey suggested the committee table the matter until it has been further considered by the hospitals and intermunicipal committee, to which it has also been referred.

'Quebec Eskimos Not Chattels'

Times Ottawa Bureau. OTTAWA — The Liberal minority government has been cautioned by Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker and Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson to proceed carefully in its handling of the Eskimo people.

The Eskimos should not be turned over to Quebec just because that province wants them, both leaders have warned.

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker said in the budget debate Tuesday night that the Eskimo people in Quebec must not be "bartered as chattels or subject for political expediency."

Mr. Thompson said today, "You cannot treat the Eskimos differently than you treat the Indians, therefore much broader issues are involved than appear on the surface in this matter of the Eskimos of Ungava."

Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing told the Commons Tuesday that the special commission through which the Eskimos of northern Quebec are to be consulted before any transfer of their administration to the province, has not yet been established.

He was answering a question by Erik Nielsen (P.C.—Yukon). The member noted that on March 4 the minister said such a commission would be appointed jointly by the federal and Quebec governments.

Egypt Swallows U.K. Oil Firms

CAIRO (Reuters) — President Nasser has issued a decree nationalizing the Shell and Anglo-Egyptian Oil Companies in Egypt, the Middle East News Agency reported today.

Shell and British Petroleum had a 62-per-cent interest in the Anglo-Egyptian company until 1961, when it was 50 per cent nationalized, leaving the two British companies with a 31-per-cent share.

(A Shell spokesman in London said the company in Egypt was a marketing organization, while the Anglo-Egyptian company was an exploration firm connected with Shell.)

Last August, Industries Minister Aziz Sidky said Egypt's nationalization of mines and cancellation of private mining licences did not include oil prospecting and exploitation.

Few Negro Cadets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon civil rights chief said Tuesday there are only 32 Negro cadets among the 7,000 men at the U.S. Army, Navy and Air Force academies because "lots of Negro youngsters just don't dream they have a chance."

But the official, Assistant Defence Secretary Alfred B. Fitt, suggested that the planned expansion of the academies will present new opportunities for minority group youths.

CONFIRMATION AWAITED BY COMPANY

LONDON (Reuters) — A Shell Oil Company spokesman said today the company was awaiting official confirmation of a Middle East News Agency report that President Nasser has issued a decree nationalizing the Shell and Anglo-Egyptian oilfields companies in Egypt. "We know no more than what is in the newspapers," the spokesman said.

Al Ahram said today the necessary measures were taken Tuesday to take over possession of both companies.

It said the Al Nasr Oilfields Company (Anglo-Egyptian Oilfields) produced about 900,000 tons of crude oil a year and owned a refinery in Elzayteya, at Suez, and oilfields at Ras Gharib, Ras Matarna and Gharaka, all on the Red Sea.

Old Dependables Get Play

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Where is the "smart money" going these days? What are the very wealthy, highly sophisticated people doing with their funds? Business Week magazine has surveyed the situation and reports that those who are adept at playing the big capital gains are, of course, in the stock market, but also in a variety of situations ranging from retirement communities, cargo ships and raw lands to resorts and African art.

"These people," reports the magazine, "believe the pendulum has swung halfway back from the extra cautious days of late 1962. The memory of May, 1962, stock market crash is fading, the economy is bustling. An aroma of inflation is in the air."

Fixed income securities are going out of fashion with the "smart money" investors and equities, even with high price tags, are back in vogue. But the free-wheeling spirit of the late '50s and early '60s is missing and, while chances are still taken, the over-riding emphasis is on proven performance and solid prospects.

The glamor stocks are out and the old dependables are in: General Motors, AT and T, chemicals, nonferrous metals, railroads, appliance manufacturers, airlines.

Local investors who clamored for shares in the new Bank of Western Canada will be happy to know they are running with the "smart money" crowd. In the U.S. banks are getting a lot of heavy play with old banks changing hands and new ones springing up everywhere.

In another paragraph which should be of significance locally, Business Week said its survey found that a lot of Canadian "smart money" is going into British Columbia farm lands.

About investing in African art. One Chicago businessman has found that some of the new African nations are bidding high for specimens of their native art that were sold abroad years ago. A piece of African sculpture bought in the U.S. for $800 in 1961 is now valued at $9,000. The Chicagoan now has about 90 per cent of his investment money tied up in primitive African art.

Investors Syndicate of Canada Ltd. has been repatriated after four years during which effective control was exercised by Gamble-Skogmo Inc. of Minneapolis.

James Richardson and Sons has purchased a $13 million block of 250,000 shares from the U.S. company which represented a 41.3 per cent interest in Investors Syndicate. Half has been sold to an unnamed Canadian group which now has the largest interest in the investment fund. Richardson's is considering a public distribution of part of the remainder of the shares later.

At present Richardson's holdings represent about 30 per cent of Investors Syndicate shares, including a 10 per cent block already held by the Richardson family.

Traders Finance Corp. reported a sharp drop in net profit for 1963, primarily as the result of underwriting losses of three insurance subsidiaries.

Consolidated net was $3,295,072 or 70 cents a share compared with 1962's $4,643,576 or $1.01 a share. Earned income was up eight per cent at $39,563,680.

R. M. Willmott, president, said that a forecast of 1964 earnings of the companies in the Traders group indicated that the annual dividend of 80 cents will be earned with a satisfactory margin.

Increased competition is expected to lower finance rates in the industrial field, but Traders is well prepared to capture an expanding share of its principal markets, he said.

Canadian Industrial Gas Ltd. has purchased 600,000 common shares from the treasury of Mid-Western Industrial Gas Ltd. at $3 a share giving it a 19 per cent interest.

U.S. EASTER BUYING HEADED FOR RECORD

NEW YORK (AP) — Easter buying in the United States appears headed for a record, helped by a boost from the income tax cut.

In New York, J. Gordon Dakins, executive secretary of the National Retail Merchants Association, said reports from around the country indicated a five-per-cent gain compared with last year.

Dakins said the tax cut was one element making it possible to sell more goods. People have fewer worries and more confidence in the future, he said, and are spending accordingly.

Home Building Registers Gain

OTTAWA (CP) — Except for the bumper year of 1958, Canadians started building more housing units in 1963 than in any other previous year.

The annual report of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation shows that a late-season flurry of activity in the construction of single-family dwellings pushed the over-all 1963 total of housing starts to 148,624 units. This was 14.2 per cent higher than the 130,095 starts made in 1962.

The report said that perhaps the most significant development of the year was the fact that 96,613 units were under construction at the beginning of 1964, compared with 76,153 units a year earlier. This indicated "a record volume of investment and employment in the housing sector in the first few months of this year.

Housing activity last year resulted in an investment of $1,700,000,000, compared with $1,600,000,000 in 1962.

Starts on apartment and row-housing units were well ahead of 1962 and ended the year with a 42.3 per cent gain.

During the year, changes in the Housing Act included a lowering of interest rates to 6 1/2 per cent and an increase in the maximum amount of NHA loans.

In addition, the winter incentive program was started whereby the first purchasers of houses, constructed between December and March, would receive $500 from the federal government.

Island Chamber Officials Ride Back Into By-Gone Era

Private collection of old logging locomotives, rolling stock and coaches of a past era, which will become part of an outdoor museum at Duncan, were inspected by members of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Vancouver Island attending their annual convention at Duncan on Tuesday. Historic equipment and relics have been turned over to newly formed Cowichan Valley Forest Museum by G. (Gerry) R. Wellburn of Deerholme, four miles west of Duncan. The former logging com-

symbol of 1897. Queen Victoria rode in a similar coach. The collection also includes more than 30 models of carriages, wagons and stage coaches. Visitors saw working tools of Indians and pioneers of the Cowichan Valley, a display of old logging photographs and an original woodman's cabin.

There are more than 1,000 exhibits. The collection, when established at a new 19-acre site at Drinkwater Road and Somers Lake near Duncan, will have a value of about $250,000. Duncan boosters say it will be the finest logging museum in North America and the first in Canada.

Duncan, North Cowichan and Lake Cowichan so far have agreed to support the project which is expected to become a major tourist attraction. Logging companies are expected to back the museum and donate additional equipment. Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan feels it will take at least three years before the museum is completed, but he hopes the logging railway will be operating at its new site by the end of July. The B.C. government is expected to make a grant to help pay for the construction of new buildings to house some of the relics.

GORGE ROAD—Next Plywood Mill

The park, proposed by delegates to the annual convention in Duncan Tuesday of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of V.I., is between Schooner Cove and Cox Bay, at the Tofino end of Long Beach.

It would be on land now owned by the federal and provincial governments.

TOFINO MOVE Making the call for the park was Tofino chamber delegate Thomas Gibson.

Mr. Gibson said it was one of the few places where a park could overlook the main Pacific Ocean, with "nothing between there and Japan."

He said the federal government would be willing to go ahead with the establishment if the B.C. government would hand over the part it owns.

The association also called for establishment of Forbidden Plateau as a national park, as well as Goose Spit neck in Courtenay.

CURB POLLUTION

Delegates approved a call for the provincial government to move to curtail air and water pollution in B.C.

They also called for taxing of narrow strips of land by water or road on tree farms at the regular land rate to encourage their use for public enjoyment.

In other moves, the association called for:

- Sailings from 6 a.m. to midnight on the Departure Bay-Horseshoe Bay run;

- Blacktopping of the Upper Campbell and Buttle lakes access roads, improved accessibility on the Alberni-Tofino road, a marine highway between Bamfield and Port Renfrew;

- Establishment of boat-launching ramps throughout B.C. and especially at Cameron Lake and Sooke;

- A breakwater at Chemainus.

FIRST TYPE of steam donkey used by logging industry in the 1880s is shown here being inspected by Mayor Jack Dobson of Duncan. It was first used in Chemainus, but was soon replaced by more efficient models. Collection also include sections of trees which were over 1,000 years old before they were cut.

'MAKE JUDGMENTS IN HUMAN TERMS'

DUNCAN—Agriculture Minister Frank Richter Tuesday deplored trends toward "bigness and impersonality" in today's society.

Mr. Richter, addressing the Associated Chamber of Commerce of Vancouver Island, said that as social institutions grow larger it is becoming more difficult to preserve the worth and dignity of the individual. "Man is among his fellow men but scarcely aware of them."

He said that for society to concentrate on people as masses rather than as individuals is "the very antithesis of Christian ethics."

Mr. Richter suggested that the same factors, pushing up gross national product, profit and wages may also be responsible for increases in mental illness, unemployment, alcoholism, drug addiction, crime and suicide.

"We must make judgments in human terms."

15-YEAR-OLD TESTIFIES:

Teen-Agers Drank Beer On Day of Youth's Death

NANAIMO—A 15-year-old girl testified in Assize Court here Tuesday that she and two friends drank beer with 17-year-old Denis Roy Cline of Duncan the day Hugh George Nesbitt, 14, died.

Cline was charged with manslaughter following the death of Nesbitt on Maple Bay Road Aug. 8, 1963.

Sharon Hagen testified that she, Cline, David Bossin and Roberta Martin drank three bottles of beer out of a case at Bossin's home the evening of the boy's death.

Then they went for a drive along Maple Bay Road to go swimming. The body of Nesbitt was found in the area by police later the same day.

WHISTLED

Sharon Hagen told the court that on their way back from Maple Bay their car passed two young boys walking at the side of the road. She said they whistled and started motioning with their hands.

Sharon said: "David stopped the car and either he or Denis said 'Let's chase them to give them a scare.'"

Then, she said, David and Denis got out of the car and started to run down the road after the boys—Denis after Nesbitt and David after the other youth.

"David came back and I asked him where Denis was. Then he backed up the car and stopped it."

Sharon said she got out of the car and saw Denis getting up off the ground as she walked toward him. When she got near Cline, she said she could see the body of Nesbitt lying near a gate.

'WHAT'S GOING ON?'

She screamed at Denis: "What's going on here?" and he answered: "I didn't do anything."

Roberta Martin said she had been with Cline, Sharon Hagen and David Bossin on Aug. 8, 1963. Returning from Maple Bay they heard whistling.

"David said there were two boys thumbing their noses. Then David said 'Let's give them a scare' and stopped the car. David and Denis got out and started running back down the road."

Robert testified that Bossin returned to the car, backed it down the road and got out with Sharon to look for Cline.

'LEAVE HIM ALONE'

"I heard Sharon say 'David leave him alone.' Then David and Denis and Sharon came back to the car."

The trial continued today.

Council's 'Farm Boy' to Drop a Few Chores

Ald. M. H. Mooney today said he will retire as president of the city council and devote more time to his council duties and also take up some new hobbies.

Now 57, he set up his own body repairing business in 1940 as a one-man operation and expanded until at one time he had 50 employees in his Victoria shop and an up-island branch, Duncan Auto and Metal on Government Street. He also became a franchised dealer for several makes of cars.

Sons Donald and Ronald joined the firm when they graduated from high school about 12 years ago. A daughter, Doris, is an elementary school teacher here.

12TH YEAR

Currently serving his 12th year on city council, he plans to remain in Victoria.

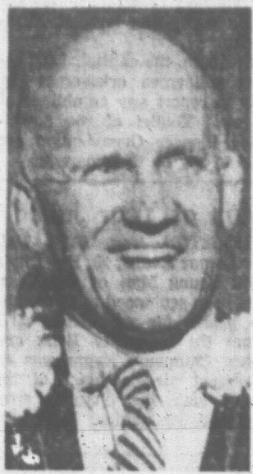

"Up until now, I've had to stay pretty close to my business and, instead of golfing or fishing as most men do, I've made city council work my main hobby," he said.

"Through it I've made many friends and I hope not many enemies. I really enjoy it because I've always been welcome everywhere in the city as an alderman—which is not bad for a farm boy."

"But maybe now I can also do some of the travelling, hunting and fishing and other things that I've wanted to do."

MECHANICAL BENT

Ald. Mooney has always been proud of his farm background. He grew up on a Saskatchewan farm and tinkering with tractors and combines gave him his mechanical bent.

ALD. MOONEY

to travel, hunt

He also spent a winter in the Peace River country, breaking land for a new homestead and building himself a log cabin, before finally giving up farming. "The last straw came in 1929—one day we had a beautiful crop standing in the fields and the next morning it had all been flattened by hail," he recalls.

He went to work in Regina as a mechanic in an automobile firm. The following year, while on his way to his Peace River homestead to do some second-year work, he stopped over in Edmonton.

While there, Edmonton Motors asked him to do a three-day repair job and I wound up staying five years."

ONE DAY ONLY

In 1934 he decided to head for the "big city" of Vancouver but he stayed there only one day. "The next day I came to Victoria and I've never left."

An expert metal worker—he used to draw spectators while working—he hired on with Motorhouse, at Yates and Vancouver, operated by R. B. Wilson.

"I went to work for Mayor Wilson in my first job here 30 years ago and now I'm working under him again—but as an alderman," he observed.

Grit Senator Dies

OTTAWA (UPI)—Liberal Senator Charles Benjamin Howard died today of a heart attack at his home in Sherbrooke, Que. Howard, 78, was called to the senate in 1940. He was first elected as a Liberal member of Parliament in 1925, and was re-elected in 1926, 1930, and 1935.

'Anglicans Moving Ever Toward Rome'

LONDON (AP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Michael Ramsey, listened Tuesday night as the Labor party leader in the House of Lords accused the Church of England of turning increasingly towards Rome.

Earl Alexander of Hillsborough, the opposition leader in the upper house, opposed approval of a measure passed by the church assembly to amend an old law prescribing that church altars must be made of wood and must be movable. In fact, most Anglican altars are of stone and never moved.

Lord Alexander, who is connected with the United Kingdom of Protestant Churches, said: "There can be no possible doubt that these changes are being made step by step in order that the church may move further towards Rome in its policies."

The measure was approved, with only Lord Alexander dissenting.

Swiss Jail Doctor In Widow's Death

LAUSANNE (AP)—A three-man panel of judges Tuesday convicted society physician Gerard Savoy in this Swiss town of the drug death of a wealthy Missouri-born widow, Marjorie Winifred Bird, and sentenced him to seven years' solitary imprisonment. Two co-defendants got lesser sentences and an Egyptian defendant was acquitted.

Presiding Judge Bertrand de Hater called the Swiss nerve specialist a disgrace to humanity and to the medical profession.

Savoy, 59, Mrs. Bird's personal physician, was accused of conspiring with her secretary, Nicholas Sturdza, to keep her in a permanently drugged state for nearly three years in an attempt to get control of her fortune.

Mrs. Bird, of Matinecock, N.Y., died July 22, 1961, in her Lausanne hotel suite of lethal dosages, the court found.

Sturdza, self-styled Romanian prince and refugee from communism, was found guilty of stealing jewelry worth $700,000 from Mrs. Bird's hotel safe as she lay dying.

Yvette Luginbuhl, 49, Savoy's former secretary and mistress, was convicted of hiding property belonging to Savoy in her apartment to give the impression that he was penniless. She received a suspended sentence of one month.

Egyptian businessman Charles Abner, 45, was acquitted of a charge of receiving part of Mrs. Bird's stolen jewelry from Sturdza.

NAMED executive assistant to Northern Affairs Minister Arthur Laing is Gordon F. Gibson, 26, of Vancouver.

Soviet Missile Plan Draws India Support

GENEVA (AP)—India, in a surprise move, Tuesday supported Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko's proposal for retaining a limited number of nuclear missiles to the last stage of a world disarmament treaty.

The Indian move, made by delegate Vishnu C. Trivedi, alarmed Western delegates at the 17-nation disarmament conference.

The Western side fears the Gromyko plan—never spelled out in detail—might upset the existing balance of power and leave the world exposed to an eventual Soviet "nuclear blackmail."

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, the Soviet delegate, welcomed the Indian statement. He offered to begin drafting detailed provisions of the Gromyko plan as soon as the Western countries have accepted it in principle.

DOES NOT AGREE

U.S. delegate Adrian S. Fisher said Gromyko's proposal remains unacceptable to the United States in its present form. Therefore, he said, he could not agree with Trivedi's views.

Brazilian Foreign Minister Joao Augusto de Araujo Castro told the delegates to stop speech-making and resume detailed negotiations for a ban on underground nuclear tests above a certain size. He said the size could be negotiated in the conference.

He charged the U.S., Britain and the Soviet Union were trying to set up a "nuclear directorate" and excluding the conference from their disarmament negotiations.

Cyprus Arbiter Starts on Task

(Times News Services)
GENEVA—UN Secretary-General U Thant today appointed former premier Sakari S. Tuomioja of Finland as mediator in the Cyprus dispute.

TUOMIOJA

Long Career In Diplomacy, Government

HELSINKI (AP)—Sakari S. Tuomioja, UN mediator for the Cyprus crisis, is a 53-year-old Finn with long experience in politics at home and diplomatic abroad.

He began his government career as councillor in the finance department. In 1944, after the Second World War ended for Finland, he was named assistant minister of finance in the late Juho Paasikivi's first post-war government. Urho Kekkonen, now Finland's president, was justice minister.

In 1945, Tuomioja became finance minister but left the cabinet late that year to become chief of Finland's National Bank. He held that position until 1955 but also served in two of Kekkonen's governments, in 1950 as minister for trade and industry and in 1951-52 as secretary of state, and as head of a caretaker cabinet in 1953-54.

When he left the National Bank in 1955, Tuomioja embarked on his diplomatic career, as Finnish ambassador to Britain until 1957.

In the presidential campaign of 1956, Tuomioja made a bid for the country's top post as a candidate from the Conservative party. But his old friend and government colleague Kekkonen was the winner.

From the London embassy Tuomioja went to the UN as secretary-general of the European Economic Commission. In 1959 the UN sent him to Laos to study the economic situation there.

He returned to the foreign office in Helsinki and in 1960 was appointed ambassador to Sweden, his present post.

Radical Surgery

SASKATOON (CP)—A six-member team of Saskatoon doctors has performed a kidney transplant operation believed to be the first of its kind in Canada and possibly the fourth of its kind in the world.

The operation involved replacing a kidney of Mrs. Stella Mossing, 19, Saskatoon, with one from her mother. Then, when the mother's kidney failed to function properly in her daughter's body, they replaced the mother's kidney with one from a victim of a fatal accident.

The Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons said today the second transplant, or "re-transplant," so far was functioning well.

Report Urges Judge Face Perjury Charge

MONTREAL (CP)—Charges of perjury, conspiracy to obstruct justice and conspiracy to facilitate the commission of public mischief should be laid against Mr. Justice Adrien Meunier of the Superior Court, sessions Judge Claude Wagner recommended Tuesday.

The recommendation to the Quebec attorney-general, contained in a 23-page judgment following a lengthy in-camera preliminary investigation of a $64,705 bankruptcy, has no precedent in Quebec legal history.

Judge Wagner also suggested a total of 28 criminal charges be laid against seven other individuals. Included in this group was Armand Larose, one of three men on

1,000 Thrill To Arctic Documentary

Big game "shot" with a camera in the mountains and tundra of the north thrilled more than 1,000 persons Tuesday night at Memorial Arena.

The two-hour color documentary, Arctic Safari, filmed over a three-year period by hunting guide Ron Hayes will be screened again tonight and Thursday at 8 p.m.

Among its highlights is a real hunt of polar bears through the snowy wilds of Alaska and sequences showing Eskimo ritual dances.

Fishing, hunting and camping in the Arctic are portrayed and there are numerous "shots" of Dall sheep, caribou, grizzlies, whales and brown bears.

Tuomioja, 53, said he would take up his work in the strife-torn east Mediterranean island by the middle of next week.

His appointment was approved Tuesday by Greece, Turkey, Britain and the island's two feuding communities.

Tuomioja, who has been Finland's ambassador to Sweden, said he would fly to New York Sunday for further consultations with Thant. The secretary-general came to Geneva for the opening of the UN trade and development conference.

Tuomioja described his mission—to try to bring a permanent peace between the feuding Greek- and Turkish-Cypriot communities—as "a thrilling challenge." But he said he is aware of the great difficulties facing him.

COULD BE EXTENDED

He said the Finnish government has given him a six-months leave of absence, but "nobody can tell how long it will take." The mediator's mandate from the Security Council is for only three months, but it would undoubtedly be extended if factions and nations involved desire an extension.

With Tuomioja's appointment, the United Nations was almost ready to begin its two-fold task of enforcing a peace between the Greek- and Turkish-Cypriots and trying to mediate their bloody communal dispute.

Li-Gen. Prem Singh Gyan, Indian commander of the UN peace-keeping force for the island, said in Cyprus the international army may be operational by the end of the week.

Canadians of the Royal 22nd Regiment—the Van Doos—are the only contingent so far to arrive on the island. The Canadians are confined to their camp on the western outskirts of Nicosia. They have been making practice patrols to show the UN flag.

HIS THIRD ASSIGNMENT

The Cyprus post is Tuomioja's third UN assignment. The late secretary—general Dag Hammarskjöld sent him to Laos in 1959 on an economic mission. He also spent three years as executive secretary of the UN economic commission for Europe.

Thant said he wanted to send Tuomioja to the troubled island "as soon as possible." There was no indication how the Finn would attempt to bring the rival sides together. They are deadlocked over Cyprus president Makarios' desire to amend the Cyprus constitution to remove the veto power which the Turkish minority has over major legislation.

About 4,650 troops now are available on Cyprus for UN duty. They include 1,150 Canadians and 3,500 of the 7,000 British troops who have been trying to enforce a cease-fire since the Christmas-time fighting.

Thant has pledged for all but 350 of the 7,000 men he wants for the UN force. The Republic of Ireland notified the United Nations Tuesday it will send a 600-man battalion to Cyprus about April 11 if the Irish Parliament approves. Finland and Sweden have promised 700 men each.

trial at present for the 1961 hammer slaying of underworld figure Keith (Rocky) Pearson. The charges surround the bankruptcy of furniture merchant Constant Brodeur and the acquittal of two men, Hilaire Paquette and Andre Poupard, in April, 1963, on charges resulting from possession of furniture involved in the bankruptcy.

Judge Wagner, dealing with evidence given by Mr. Justice Meunier, referred to the disappearance of the large dossier in the Paquette-Poupard case from Room 206 of police headquarters between Sept. 24 and 25, 1962.

"Strange circumstances surrounded the disappearance of this dossier at a time before the trial had been heard and more precisely on the eve of the trial of Hilaire Paquette and Andre Poupard," Judge Wagner said.

CALLED CAPTAIN

Mr. Justice Meunier had telephoned Capt. Andre Poulin of the Montreal police on the day of the trial and told him to notify Det.-Lt. Roland Brunet that "this dossier would never be found because it had been disposed of in an incinerator," Judge Wagner said.

Mr. Justice Meunier was not a judge at the time mentioned. Liberal member of Parliament for Montreal-Papineau from 1953 to 1963, he did not seek re-election in 1963 and was appointed to the bench by the Pearson government Oct. 16, 1963.

Capt. Poulin immediately verified the dossier was indeed missing and left a note for Det.-Lt. Brunet, introduced as evidence.

Mr. Justice Meunier denied that he had called Capt. Poulin.

Ghana's 'Brave One' Fears For Life

By ANDRES BOROWIEZ
ACCRA (AP)—Behind the ramparts of the 300-year-old Christiansborg Castle, Ghana's Marxist President Kwame Nkrumah lives in fear for his life.

Officially he is Osagyefo—The Redeemer, The Brave One, The All-Conquering, the saviour of this African nation of 7,000,000.

But repeated assassination attempts have cut his contact with his people. Even a bullet-proof vest under a blue tunic does not give him enough confidence to emerge from the fortified castle and greet crowds.

His dream is to forge Africa into one powerful political and economic bloc, abolishing all frontiers without transition. But much of Africa has rejected the idea as utopian and preferred to choose a slow, progressive approach.

Frustrated, Nkrumah has been turning more and more to the Soviet bloc. At this stage, Nkrumah seems Russia's warmest friend in Africa. Economic pacts concluded with Soviet bloc nations are bringing Ghana closer to socialism although basically the country has retained the old economic structure.

Nkrumah, a former teacher and university lecturer, has created a cult of his person. At rallies crowds yell "Oyeadeyle"—hail to the one who puts things right. Newspapers call him "the Emperor" or "Generalissimo."

The country, a member of the Commonwealth, has the highest percentage of literacy in tropical Africa—30 per cent—but has police-state methods and fear of arrest.

Under a criminal detention act, anyone can be held for 10 years without trial. Judges and police officials have been fired on charges of leniency toward those conspiring against Nkrumah.

In Accra, the capital, 1,000 secret policemen criss-cross the city to report any rumblings of revolt. Youths of the Soviet-style Pioneer Organization are told to spy on their parents.

Man of Year Jailed
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Walter Lamar Evans, 29, Bay City's 1962 Young Man of the Year, has been sentenced to 18 months in prison for embezzling $171 from the Bay City Bank and Trust Company. Evans was an assistant vice-president of the bank until his dismissal last October. He worked there nine years.

From the castle, Nkrumah issues occasional radio appeals, promising to lead the country "toward the supremacy of the people."

His cult has become a doctrine. "How loyal Nkrumahist are you?" asks posters on the city's walls.

Nkrumahism "demands that every citizen be militant in the vanguard of the revolution."

Nkrumah works 18 hours a day. He does not drink or smoke, eats sparingly, plays tennis and exercises every day. At 55, he is in excellent physical condition.

Tories Win Tight Vote

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP) — Parliamentary trouble-shooters sought today to stifle an embarrassing rank-and-file revolt on retail price-fixing.

Outwardly, the Conservative government maintained a "wait-and-see" attitude after a sensational Commons vote Tuesday night in committee relating to a bill to prohibit manufacturers from requiring retailers to sell their goods at a fixed price.

With probably at least 20 Conservatives rebelling against the administration, the division went in the government's favor by only one vote—204 to 203. Normally the Tory majority is 86.

Liberals and Laborites, though favoring the principle of abolishing price fixing, joined the rebels in voting for an amendment that would have retained fixed prices for goods sold by druggists.

Defeat would not have forced the government to resign. Nevertheless the narrow squeak will be a blow to party strategists and will almost certainly upset the Tory parliamentary timetable.

EASTER COMPLETION

Originally the government hoped to complete detailed examination of the controversial bill by Easter. Now some backbenchers are doubtful whether the legislation can be forced through before the election, generally forecast for June.

The vote may now encourage rebels to a further show of intransigence, perhaps creating a parliamentary climate that might induce Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home to postpone the election until October.

The man in the middle of this emotional tug of war is Trade Minister Edward Heath, the "father" of the price-fixing legislation. Heath already has shown considerable toughness under fire in the early stages of the price war and is reported determined to press ahead doggedly through the mountain of amendments proposed, some of them from his own backbenchers.

Some parliamentarians feel that the present fuss reflects on Prime Minister Douglas-Home, who is said to have given Heath his head without himself fully investigating the possible implications of an issue that the party has traditionally avoided. The bill is particularly disliked by small shopkeepers, who vote the Tory ticket almost to a man.

PARTY RELUCTANT

Non-partisan voters may regard the future, as indicating that the Conservative party is as reluctant as ever to commit itself to progressive measures, especially when opposed by a vociferous minority.

Several times Prime Minister Douglas-Home has said that the cost of living is the No. 1 election issue, adding that he and his government are determined to throw their whole weight behind moves to bring down prices.

Opponents of the bill say experience has shown that the removal of the price-fixing privilege—known in Britain as "resale price maintenance"—does not necessarily make much impact on prices. Representatives of trade associations opposing the measure say that in Canada, for example, it has been found necessary to "back-track" on similar legislation.

Apart from out-and-out Tory rebels, some backbenchers abstained from voting.

Heath is one of the "modernizers" in the conservative party but his stand in the price dispute has earned him the unqualified hostility of a section of the party.

Hogg Under Fire For Harsh Words

LONDON (CP) — Dour-faced the House of Commons Tuesday, George Wigg won the first round over Science Minister Quintin Hogg in a legal bout in the House.

Salinger Ineligible

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — California secretary of state Frank M. Jordan today refused to qualify Pierre Salinger for the Democratic primary ballot in June.

Jordan ruled that Salinger's nomination papers for the U.S. Senate were "incomplete." Jordan said that Salinger supporters might now attempt to reverse his action through the courts.

'GIVE DRUGS AT COST TO ADDICTS'

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Glen McDonald, city coroner, said Tuesday he favors providing drugs at cost to addicts to save the city more than $300,000 daily.

He said the "caps" of drugs which now cost the addict $15 each, sold for $10 when he made his estimate that persons seeking money for the usual two caps daily cost citizens $300,000 a day in theft and other crimes.

The legal cost of giving an addict two capsules a day would amount to about 20 cents an addict, totalling $300 a day for the estimated 1,500 addicts in the city, he said.

The coroner, speaking to the Lions Club, said addicts now held in prison could be released to society if drugs were sold at cost.

IKEDA

Ikeda Apology For Stabbing Telecast Live

TOKYO (API) — Premier Hayato Ikeda, in the first live telecast from Japan to the United States, expressed his country's "deepest regrets" today for a deranged Japanese youth's knife attack on U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer.

"On behalf of the people of Japan, I express my deepest regrets for the stabbing of Mr. Reischauer by a Japanese youth," the premier said in Japanese.

Reischauer was reported recovering and his doctor said the 34-inch deep wound in his right thigh should be healed in about two weeks.

The ambassador also had been scheduled to appear on the eight-minute program, which went to the United States via the Relay II communications satellite.

Instead U.S. Minister John Emerson read a message from Reischauer in which he said he wanted "to emphasize that yesterday's unfortunate incident—or any such irresponsible incident—could have no possible effect on our great partnership."

PROMOTE FRIENDSHIP

Ikeda expressed hope that the success of the telecast would "further promote the friendly ties" between the United States and Japan. The first two-way telecast between the United States and Japan is scheduled Friday, and the Japanese hope to be able to televise the Tokyo Olympics in October to the world via satellite.

The telecast went off without a hitch, and reception in New York was perfect.

The telecast included a number of scenic shots that were transmitted live from Tokyo.

Ikeda accepted the resignation of Japan's state minister for public safety, Takashi Hayakawa, who bowed out in a traditional Japanese gesture of atonement for the incident Tuesday.

Police continued to question Norikazu Shiotani, 19, who stabbed Reischauer.

Mental Health Aid Urged on Doctors

OTTAWA (CP) — For the second day a national conference of psychiatrists and physicians has urged Canadian medical doctors to assume a greater role in the field of mental health.

The conference, attended by 100 medical men, is considering ways to integrate the practice of psychiatry with general medical practice.

The three-day meeting ends today.

Dr. Ewen Cameron, head of McGill University's psychiatry department, told the meeting Tuesday general practitioners with proper training could carry on certain types of psychotherapy as well as if not better than psychiatrists.

Dr. Cameron, president of the World Psychiatric Association, said: "Family doctors can be of real assistance to their patients in a time of family crisis."

when mental disorders are likely to develop."

Dr. Andre Boudreau, director of medical services on alcoholism for the Quebec health ministry, said doctors had often avoided their responsibilities towards alcoholics.

"Some years ago, alcoholism was thought of as a moral issue, or a mental illness, but today it is recognized as a disease and as such, lies within the scope of the medical doctor," he said.

P.E.I. Gets Flag

CHARLOTTETOWN (CP) — Prince Edward Island is to have its own flag as a result of legislation passed unanimously Tuesday in the legislature. The flag would include an outline of the island in green, with an oak tree and saplings and a royal lion.

HULL 'PLAYER OF YEAR'

Hawks Dominate All-Star Balloting

NEW YORK (AP)—Scrappy Stan Mikita, the individual scoring leader, and four other Chicago Black Hawks were named today to The Associated Press National Hockey League all-star team for the 1963-64 season.

Goalie Glenn Hall, defenceman Pierre Pilote, left-winger Bobby Hull and right-winger Ken Wharram were the other Chicago players chosen. Defenceman Tim Horton of Toronto Maple Leafs rounded out the team.

Mikita, a centre, led the NHL in total points with 82, two more than Hull, who led in goals with 42.

HODGE NAMED

Montreal Canadiens and Detroit Red Wings each placed two players on the second team. Goalie Charlie Hodge and centre Jean Beliveau were the Canadiens while right-winger Gordie Howe and defenceman Doug Barkley represented the Red Wings.

Defenceman Elmer Vasko of Chicago and left-winger Frank Mahovlich of Toronto were the others chosen.

The teams were picked in a vote of Associated Press hockey writers.

The writers also named Hull as the "player-of-the-year." He edged Mikita and Wharram in the balloting.

Coulter's Counter Gives Chiefs Title

Pontiac Chiefs reign over the Esquimaux District Hockey League today. But they had to go all out to make it.

A goal by Ory Coulter with only 41 seconds to play gave them a 4-3 victory over Victoria University Vikings at the Sports Centre Tuesday night.

Chiefs reeled off 7-1 and 5-3 victories before engaging a Viking team Tuesday that wanted a piece of the final.

Vikings rattled into 2st and 3-2 leads, looked as if they might hold on until late in the third period.

Then John Makowski went to work. At 15:17 he slid a pass to Peter Dawe who drove a screamer shoulder-high past Ted Hurd. That made it 3-3.

In the final minute the puck danced crazily around the Vikings' net. Makowski dug it out of the pack, fed it to Coulter and that was all.

Chiefs' victory was a 4-3. The three, who said they were tourists, were paid in four cheques.

The extra cheque, they said, was for one of the men's wives "who was in on the deal."

WIFE AND UNCLE SAM GET IN ON BIG PAYOFF

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Three unidentified Canadian men, winners of last Friday's Gulfstream Park twin double pay-off of $77,040.60, collected their money Tuesday.

The three told Gulfstream officials last week they wanted to confer with lawyers to determine if they could avoid the 30 per cent income tax deduction required for aliens.

The winnings paid them Tuesday totalled $53,928.42. The deduction had been taken off.

The three, who said they were tourists, were paid in four cheques.

The extra cheque, they said, was for one of the men's wives "who was in on the deal."

Italians Pep Up Drive Against Stimulants

MILAN (AP)—The Italian Soccer League announced Tuesday night a more severe anti-doping campaign aimed at keeping major league players from using pep pills before championship games.
The decision came in the wake of a doping scandal that rocked Italian soccer. Traces of an illegal stimulant were found in the urine of five Bologna players during a routine spot check after a February game.
The players were acquitted by the league's judiciary commission. Bologna was penalized three points, dropping from first to third place. The team's coach was disqualified until Sept. 21, 1965.
The league also decided that the five players of each team to be examined should be chosen by the game referee right after the game has ended and not selected in advance by the league.

For relaxation, Douglas Young took up sailing; for a profitable investment, he bought London Life insurance. Story below:

How Douglas Young can double his money with his London Life policy

A London Life Jubilee policy is a unique investment. While it gives protection year after year, it also builds surprising savings. Consider the case of Douglas Young:

Later, as his income climbs, he plans to change his temporary insurance to permanent profit-sharing insurance. His policy allows him to do this without a medical.

In a financial emergency, he can borrow on the cash value of his Jubilee policy. Quickly and quietly. The interest rate is 6%—comparable with banks' regular lending rates, and much lower than personal loan companies'.

Here are four more reasons why a London Life Jubilee policy is such a good investment:

(1) A Jubilee policy is just as safe as high-grade bonds and much safer than most common stocks. It is particularly attractive because while it earns you money it also protects your family.

(2) London Life dividends are high partly because the Company invests wisely and profitably in Canada. (In 1963, the Company earned 5.54% on its investments—after investment expenses.)

(3) The London Life Insurance Company operates only in Canada. One reason premiums are low is because Canadians, on the average, are long lived.

(4) Flexibility is an important point. With the help of a London Life representative, you can build a program that fits your needs.

For example, if you are under 40, you can reserve the right to buy more insurance later on—without a medical. You can pay premiums on a monthly budget plan. You can add on extra protection while your children are growing.

No two men have the same insurance needs; what is right for Douglas Young may not be right for you. That is why London Life representatives are schooled to custom-tailor insurance to fit the individual.

IN MAY of 1962, Douglas Young graduated from the University of Western Ontario and joined the Marketing Division of a large Canadian company. Three months later he bought a $20,000 profit-sharing policy from London Life.

His age: 22. His premium: $25.85 a month. (This is a special whole life policy that gives lifelong protection but requires premiums only to age 65.)

By age 65, he will have paid $13,338 in premiums. How much will he get back?

If he leaves his dividends with the Company to age 65, he will then have savings of about $32,120. This is made up of $13,440 in guaranteed cash value and $18,680 in accumulated dividends.

(The dividends above are based on London Life's current dividend rate. While they are not guaranteed, the Company has had an outstanding record of dividend growth for over 50 years. For example, since 1951 the dividend rate has been increased seven times.)

If he lives, his family will be protected for 43 years and he can get back over twice as much money as he has paid in premiums.

When Douglas is 65 and ready to retire, London Life will give him three choices:

(a) He can keep his $20,000 policy and continue to build savings. (Remember, his premiums stop at age 65, so he won't pay a penny more.)

(b) He can withdraw his savings as a lump sum.

(c) He can use his savings to provide an annuity for life or for a set number of years.

Douglas realized that a crippling accident or long illness could cut off his income just as quickly as death. So for less than the cost of a steak dinner once a month, he added the disability income feature to his policy.

Should he be unable to work for more than six months, London Life will send him a cheque for $200 on the first of each month.

His wife Brenda, and son David, are well protected. On top of the profit-sharing policy, he added $40,000 of London Life convertible term (for a modest additional premium).

Protection for Brenda and young David is an important part of Douglas' London Life plan.

U.S. Urges Poor Nations To Reorganize Economies

GENEVA (AP)—The United States today urged the world's poor nations to forget traditional fears of investment by foreign capitalists and get to work reorganizing their backward economies.

"Economic development is an intricate and difficult process," George C. Ball, under-secretary of state, told the UN trade and development conference. "It has proved difficult for the industrial countries who have gone through it in the past, and it will be so for the newer countries going through it now."

The rich nations, he added, can help with technical advice and close co-operation through such established forums as the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Ball said he would like these ideas to set the tone of the 122-nation conference, which already has heard spokesmen of the underdeveloped countries condemn GATT as inadequate to their need for a larger share of world trade.

NOT LIKELY POPULAR
Ball's speech, virtually a do-it-yourself improvement program for the have-not nations when contrasted with what they want, was not likely to go down well with the majority of the delegates from the underdeveloped nations.

U.S. officials were prepared for this, and one said privately: "We don't expect the underdeveloped countries to like this, but we don't want to set up any high hopes."

CANADA OPPOSED

Initial reaction, however, was not as stiff as expected. An Arab source called the speech realistic and said: "It shows that we cannot expect anything in the way of aid."

"Realistic" was the word used by several other delegates, some of whom said they had expected an even tougher stand. One Latin American delegate said the speech did not accord with his country's policies, but he felt it was more constructive than Tuesday's French proposals, which he described as "an intellectual declaration."

Canada told the conference Tuesday that it is opposed also to a new world trading body, preferring to use existing machinery to aid developing nations.

External Affairs Minister Paul Martin said abolition of tariffs and other restrictions on tropical foodstuffs and industrial materials would be one of the ways in which richer countries could help the poorer ones.

Ball offered three main points, and he said the rich countries for their part must keep full employment so the world economy does not break down.

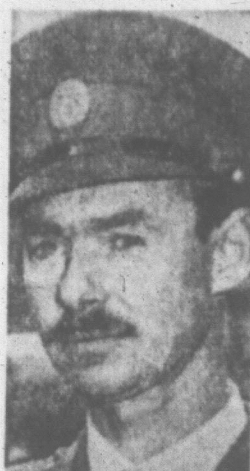

He said the poor nations should welcome private capital to develop industries, with foreign aid providing another source for more basic, long-range projects.

FORM GROUPS

He said the poor nations should form their own regional economic groups to broaden their markets and pool their developing industries. He said the United States would support changes in GATT's rules to provide more flexibility in organizing such groups. But he warned:

"Let us have no illusions as to the underlying requirement for real progress through integration. This requires that the participating nations put aside considerations of political prestige and that they commit themselves from the outset to a full line of action."

He repeated the offer to cut U.S. tariffs on products from the underdeveloped countries without asking anything from them in exchange. This one of the U.S. proposals that will be put before the "Kennedy round" negotiations among the industrialized nations in GATT on general tariff cuts.

TAKING OVER throne of Luxembourg in November is Prince Jean, 43. Decision of Grand Duchess Charlotte, 68, to abdicate in favor of her son was announced today in Chamber of Deputies of vest-pocket European nation. Charlotte, popular with her people, has ruled Luxembourg 45 years.

Negro Gls Face Bars

WASHINGTON (AP)—A government survey showed there was housing discrimination against Negro servicemen near 90 per cent of the military bases in the United States, it was disclosed today.

Alfred B. Pitt, deputy assistant secretary of defence for civil rights, told The Associated Press that housing "clearly is the most unyielding" of the various forms of racial bias facing American Negroes in uniform.

This discrimination, Pitt said, exists in the northern U.S. as well as in the south. Only 31 of 305 bases studied were given a clean bill on this count.

Martin to Open Columbia Talks

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—The commons' external affairs committee inquiry into the Canada-U.S. Columbia River treaty will open here on April 7.

First witness will be External Affairs Minister Paul Martin, who will present the government's case in favor of the treaty and the adjustments to it which he negotiated.

The opening date, tentative line-up of witnesses and ground rules for the committee's operations were established today at an organizational meeting of the committee.

Following Mr. Martin's appearance, which is expected to last several days, federal government technical experts will testify. After that, representatives of the B.C. government will appear.

CRITIC TO BE CALLED

Then the chief critic of the treaty, General A. G. L. McNaughton, will be called to present his arguments and submit to questioning by committee members.

The general will be followed by representatives of engineering firms which acted as consultants to the B.C. and federal governments.

The next category of witnesses to be called will be "experts with special points" to make on the treaty.

"Other" witnesses will be called if the committee considers it necessary.

Witnesses who are summoned will be paid a $50-a-day fee to cover expenses, plus travel costs.

Persons who are not called but who wish to make a presentation to the committee will have to meet their own expenses.

COPIES IN ADVANCE

Organizations, firms, groups or persons with briefs to submit, the committee decided, will have to provide a copy to the committee 10 days in advance of their date of appearance. The committee will then print 50 copies so members may have the briefs in advance to study in preparation for questioning of witnesses.

A proposal made at an earlier organizational meeting that the committee hold some of its hearings in B.C. was deferred for consideration at a later date, on the suggestion of committee chairman John Matheson (Lib.-Leeds).

4-Way Dog-Fight At Trade Parley

By DOUG MARSHALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The 123-nation Geneva trade conference is developing into a four-way dog-fight among planners, free traders, the Communist bloc and the developing nations.

The central issue, called "the dilemma of our times" by United Nations Secretary-General U Thant, is how to make the poor nations richer without making the rich poorer.

Because of declining or widely fluctuating prices for commodity goods during the last 10 years, the "have-not" countries have found it increasingly difficult to export raw materials profitably and thus earn enough money to pay for essential imports.

The developing nations demand a series of specific remedies to swing the balance of world trade in their favor. The Communist bloc, led by Russia, proposes major surgery by sweeping away the present trading structures—particularly the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade—and replacing them by an all-embracing world trade organization.

WEST DIVIDED

The Western powers, while rejecting this solution, are divided between the "planners" and the "free traders" in their approach to the problem.

As the three-month conference opened, the support of the developing nations was rallying behind the French-led scheme for internationally planned and managed arrangements for raw commodities.

France suggests organized markets for food surpluses, stabilized prices for commodities at a high level and direct aid to fledgling manufacturing countries.

Britain opposes this because, as a large-scale importer of food and raw materials, her import, production and export costs would soar. British delegates say that a massive slash in tariffs had general expansion in trade would be in themselves the best stimulant for underdevelopment.

TO EXAMINE GATT

The United States wants a bit of both—some basic planning combined with positive moves towards freer world trade.

The U.S. is already heavily committed to support tariff cuts in the Kennedy Round of trade negotiations beginning May 4 in GATT.

During those talks the whole position of GATT, which now is dominated by the West, will be examined in the light of the Communist proposals to scrap it in favor of a universal body.

Most likely the GATT delegates will favor retaining the basis of their present machinery but could well decide to enlarge the organization by including the Soviet bloc. This would make any new international body superfluous.

Mr. Barnett insisted the term "wage slaves" was not old-hat, but was becoming "more and more true, and in a much more insidious fashion than it was in the nineteenth century."

PRESSURE APPLIED

He illustrated this point by telling of one of his constituents, an office worker, who had been ordered by his employer to stop actively working for Mr. Barnett in the last election campaign.

"The powers that be in the company went to the man's wife and told her that if she and her husband did not cease and desist there would be no summer employment for her son (a university student), employment which had been promised him," Mr. Barnett said.

He did not identify the family involved.

"Discipline in the productive process was necessary," he agreed, but those in control must be responsible for those they control. "If slavery of the mind and exploitation of the human body and brain are to be brought to an end."

"This is the state of affairs, however, against which the budgetary policies of the government do not lift even a little finger," Mr. Barnett declared.

Jungle Law Persists Says Barnett

By ALEX YOUNG
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — A Vancouver Island MP said Monday the Liberal government has shown by its budget that it is "still wedded to the philosophy of the jungle law."

Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni) told the Commons that the budget, aside from "a few small sops thrown to the people at large," is "firmly on the side of the exploiters and not the exploited."

The Socialist MP said he believed there were Liberals with strong humanitarian impulses.

"But when budget time comes," he added, "time after time we find we still have a government that is wedded to the philosophy of the jungle law, where the strong are allowed to eat the weak, and all the humanitarian impulses of the do-gooders have not got us very far."

"Each time a new budget is introduced we find that the ever-enriching monopoly of corporate interests is being encouraged to expand its near dictatorial control over the lives of its wage slaves."

Mr. Barnett insisted the term "wage slaves" was not old-hat, but was becoming "more and more true, and in a much more insidious fashion than it was in the nineteenth century."

He illustrated this point by telling of one of his constituents, an office worker, who had been ordered by his employer to stop actively working for Mr. Barnett in the last election campaign.

"Discipline in the productive process was necessary," he agreed, but those in control must be responsible for those they control. "If slavery of the mind and exploitation of the human body and brain are to be brought to an end."

"This is the state of affairs, however, against which the budgetary policies of the government do not lift even a little finger," Mr. Barnett declared.

Elderly Women Escape Blaze

Damage To Suites

Fire this morning ripped through the upper floors of a big old city apartment block but two elderly women inside escaped unhurt.

Two truck drivers shortly after 11 a.m. saw smoke pouring out of City View Apartments, 2640 Cook Street, and raced inside to give the alarm.

They ushered out Mrs. K. W. Christensen and Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett and then ran from door to door to check if there were other tenants in the block.

$10,000 DAMAGE

The fire gutted the unused attic of the building and ripped off the roof.

Fire Chief John Abbott estimated total damage at about $10,000.

Chief Abbott said the blaze was probably started by sparks from a heap of burning rubbish in the grounds. The ashes of the small bonfire were still hot when firemen examined them.

Chief Abbott said this morning's strong winds must have carried the hot ashes up into the roof of the stucco building.

The blaze was raging when firemen arrived and they immediately called for reinforcements.

Oak Bay and Saanich fire departments were alerted in case their help was needed.

OFF-DUTY CALL

Four city rigs quickly brought the fire under control. Extra firemen who were off-duty were called in to help.

The fire was contained in the top floor and the roof although ceilings of the second-floor apartments were damaged and water seeped down through the building.

Most of the tenants were working at the time. The building contained seven suites.

The alarm was turned in by Dennis White, 3417½ Seymour, and Dick Vanderhoof, 1122 Chapman, who were driving past on Cook Street and saw smoke pouring out.

INSURED

The building is owned by two naval fire-fighters, Bob and Bruce Lindal. They said it is fully covered by insurance.

City View Apartments is across the street from the Protestant Orphanage and many who saw the smoke from a distance thought at first the orphanage was ablaze.

Several persons telephoned authorities offering to put up any of the children at the orphanage.

Woman Doctor Robbed of $200

A woman doctor was robbed of $200 while she attended a case in the maternity wing of Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday night.

Two youths were seen taking a wallet and a bag containing drugs from the car of Dr. J. F. Desrosiers. The thieves threw the bag away after being chased by Ken Dueck, 1260 Haultain. It was recovered with the drugs still intact.

Therapists Need Volunteer Aid

Volunteer aides are urgently needed to assist physiotherapists with the treatment of arthritis patients at the clinic in St. Joseph's Hospital.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society are asking for volunteers to donate a few hours of their time every other week to help the society meet the need of its case-load.

THREE MORE CANDIDATES have announced they will enter Victoria Jaycees' Miss Victoria pageant May 11-16 at Memorial Arena. Pictured above are two Oak Bay High School students Gillian Macgregor (left), 21 Olympia and Lori Middel, 1860 Adanac. Both 17-year-olds decided last spring to enter the contest.

Gillian made her public dancing debut last year in "Crazy Capers" and Lori has had some modelling experience. In photo at right is 21-year-old Tisha Richard, 6528 West Saanich Road, a secretary for Montreal Trust. Tisha enjoys sewing and painting and expects to have "quite a lot of fun" the week of the pageant. This brings to four the number of contestants eyeing the "queen" title.

MONTREAL TRES BON!

'Genuine Frenchmen' Excite Daff Queen

Reporting Tuesday that she had arrived in Montreal, Victoria's Daffodil Queen Jan Laidlaw tells Times readers today of her experiences in the French-Canadian city. The 18-year-old University of Victoria education student, touring Canada to publicize her home city, had a full schedule ranging from a visit to children in hospital to an after-dinner chat with two Parisians who had some quaint ideas about Victoria.

Here's another letter from Queen Jan:

By JAN LAIDLAW

Today I got my first real look at Montreal. Tres bon. The city is so quaint with its mixture of new and old. I was fascinated by the well dressed women of Montreal and was thankful for my gifts from the Mayfair merchants.

This morning was beautiful and I began it by viewing the city from Westmount. Mr. Hildred, TCA public relations official, and his photographer met us and we went to the Montreal Sick Children's Hospital where I gave out daffodils. The children were darling and it would have warmed any heart to see the expressions on their faces.

It was fun talking to them because they spoke only French and a little broken English. They thought I was American and when I explained to them in my high school French that I was from Victoria they called it the frontier. They were delighted to find out I was Queen of the Daffodils.

After dinner I window shopped along Sherbrooke Street looking at all the sidewalk boutiques. Because it had been a busy day and I was very tired I returned to my hotel room in the Mount Royal.

Once again I would like to thank all the wonderful people who made this trip possible.

Burglar Stays Behind to Pull Curling Club Job

Police suspect a burglary at Victoria Curling Rink was the work of someone who hid behind when the club at 1952 Quadra closed Tuesday night.

The thief got away with four wrist watches and three cigarette lighters valued at $51, and with some cigarettes and money from a vending machine. Manager Archie Higgs said no more than $20 in cash could have been stolen.

Youth Convicted Of Truck Theft

An 18-year-old youth was convicted in city court Tuesday of stealing a truck from Atlas Service Station, 324 Cook, last Tuesday.

Lewis Stevens, 1239 Pandora, was remanded to March 31 for probation report and sentence. Evidence showed he took the truck and was then chased by police at high speed. The chase ended when the truck crashed through a guard rail and on to the beach in Oak Bay.

First 5-Year Agreement Signed by Plumbers Here

Plumbers and contractors here ratified a five-year agreement today—the first five-year contract ever to be signed in the history of Victoria unions. The new contract, effective April 1, will provide a wage increase of 94 cents an hour spread over a five-year period. Every six months for the first 18 months there will be an increase of eight cents an hour and 10 cents an hour every six months thereafter.

"This is the first time we have finalized an agreement before expiry date of the old agreement, which is the result of better understanding between labor and management," said Tom Wheatley, business agent for the Plumbers' Union, Local 324.

Contractors have also agreed to make a contribution towards a mechanical trade promotional fund which will do much to promote the plumbers' trade.

President of the union Harry Elsdon said the fund will be used for national advertising, training of apprentices and journeymen and paying for renewal of licences for all employees.

WIDE RANGE

In general it will promote the mechanical contracting industry and will cover every aspect of public, consumer, school and adult education in respect to good sanitation.

Employers have agreed to contribute to the fund two cents an hour for every employee from April 1, to Oct. 1 of this year; four cents an hour from Oct. 1 to April 1, 1965, and six cents an hour for the remainder of the five years.

The new agreement will affect only slightly more than 50 per cent of the members as the others are still on strike at the shipyards after trying to negotiate an acceptable agreement for nearly eight months, said Mr. Elsdon.

Lansdowne Revision Indicated

University of Victoria development board is revising its plan for the rezoning, subdivision and sale of 27 undeveloped acres of Lansdowne campus.

Development manager Floyd Fairclough said today that plans—still confidential—would probably be acceptable to all parties concerned, including citizens of the university district opposed to apartment development.

Application for rezoning the major part of the land for apartment purposes is before Oak Bay council, which has heard protests from citizens in the North Lansdowne area.

Alternate use of the land could be for exclusive residential development of the nature of Uplands, retaining the wooded natural parkland surrounding building sites.

The land lies partly on the gradual southeast slope of Mount Tolmie.

HOLD FIRE

Mr. Fairclough Tuesday night recommended to Oak Bay zoning and planning committee and St. Philip's Church representatives that no decisions be made for about two weeks.

The church wants to build on a part of the undeveloped land east of Foul Bay Road.

It was proposed last week that this part of the Lansdowne campus be developed for church and private single dwellings.

The larger tract opposite could then be divided into parcels of about two acres each, on which single apartments of up to six stories could be erected.

Israelites Meet

Victoria and District British Israel Association will meet next Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in Newstead Hall, 734 Fort St.

Today the clinic is being held at Work Point Barracks. Thursday it will return to Red Cross House between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. and 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Seaward firings will be carried out Friday to Monday by Westminster Regiment, Canadian Militia, from Albert Head Camp and Mary Hill.

Cloverdale School's 50th anniversary celebration has been deferred for a while—planners discovered it is only 47 years since the school was founded.

Preparations were virtually completed for the reunion event next month and dozens of ex-pupils had been in touch with the committee.

But just wait until 1967.

CIVIL SERVANTS DECLINE TO RE-UNITE WITH LABOR

British Columbia civil servants have voted to remain out of the B.C. Federation of Labour.

B.C. Government Employees' Association voted 53 per cent against reuniting with the province-wide labor body, BCGEA general secretary Ab Kemp reported. He did not reveal how many of the 9,000 members cast ballots.

The BCGEA pulled out of the federation in 1960 after Premier Bennett revoked the union's checkoff privileges. The BCGEA was told this was done because it was affiliated with a group that was involved in partisan politics.

The B.C. Federation of Labour publicly endorses the New Democratic Party as the political arm of labor.

$1,500 Pay Boost Sought at Uvic To Stop Brain Drain

Salary increases of at least $1,500 each are sought by faculty members at University of Victoria during the coming academic year.

The university Faculty Association made requests in a brief now under consideration by the board of governors.

A member of faculty said measures must be taken to stem the "brain drain" to more lucrative fields in the United States.

Physical and academic growth of a university depends on availability of high-ranking staff that must receive attractive salaries, he said.

$6,500 START

Salaries should start at $6,500 for instructors, compared with no floor today, the brief said.

Next level of pay for instructors should be $7,000 rather than $5,000; assistant professors should rise from $7,000 to $9,000; associate professors from $9,000 to $11,000.

and full professors from $12,000 to $14,000.

This would "allow us to compete directly with other universities in Canada and with comparable institutions in the United States. These figures seem to us not merely advisable but necessary," the brief states.

Third recommendation is for a thorough review of each faculty member's position so the whole question of merit and promotion may be reassessed.

The supply of university teachers is shrinking and the university must not only retain the staff it has, but attract the ablest men and women possible to maintain standards and morale of its faculty, the brief declares.

SAANICH GETS DOG LAW

A central Saanich councillor Monday blamed high costs of veterinary services for some of the municipality's animal nuisance problems.

Coun. Ray Lamont said most people can't afford to pay veterinary fees for spaying cats and so dump the unwanted kittens in the municipality.

"This seems to be the favorite municipality for discarding unwanted animals," he said. "Hundreds of kittens and cats are left loose on roadsides and in fields."

TOO HIGH

He felt the problem could be solved if veterinarians lowered their fees which, he claimed, are much too high.

The councillor criticized veterinary fees after council gave third reading to a dog bylaw to control unwanted animals in the municipality.

It was drawn up as the result of complaints from residents and farmers that too many dogs are running wild in the municipality.

Under the bylaw, dog licences will cost $4 for male and spayed female dogs, and $10 for unspayed females.

Coun. C. W. Mollard suggested that the licence fee for males that have not been neutered be the same as for unspayed females.

"It's the male dogs who cause most of the damage," he said. "Why this discrimination?"

Reeve R. Gordon Lee said if

Who, me???

the proposal was approved he would want to "be out-of-town for a week or two."

"You would have hundreds of residents protesting at your door," he said. "Most people have male dogs. It would mean that they would each have to spend as much as $30 to have their dogs neutered."

"As I was saying," added Coun. Lamont, "if the vets lowered their fees most people would be able to afford to have their animals neutered."

Council decided to again consider raising the fee for unneutered dogs next year.

"We will give this present bylaw a trial first," said Coun. Lamont.

MRS. TOBIN'S DEATH SEVERS LINK WITH PAST

She Knew Victoria When Fairfield Was Farmfields

Another link with Victoria's past was severed Tuesday by the death of Mrs. Mary Ann Tobin, in her 91st year. In failing health for the past few months, she died in her sleep in her home at 114 St. Andrews Street.

The fifth child in a family of 13, and the first of them to be born in Victoria, Mrs. Tobin was the daughter of John Cox and Minnie Gillan. Her father came to the coast as a youth with the Royal Engineers on the historic Thames City in 1859. Her mother arrived three years later as a teenager aboard the brideship Tyne-mouth to live with the family of Archdeacon H. P. Wright, the first Archdeacon of Columbia.

They were married by the Archbishop in Holy Trinity Church, New Westminster, in 1863 when the Royal Engineers contingent was disbanded. For 10 years they made their home in Sapperton, before coming to Victoria.

Mrs. Tobin often recalled her childhood in the family home on Fairfield Road in what is now cemetery property, attending Central School, driving to town in a buggy to shop, and playing in the woods and farmlands of Fairfield.

Highlights were visits to Indian dances on the Songhees Reserve, canoe trips up the Gorge, and horse-drawn taily ho rides to Foul Bay for Sunday school picnics. She was a lifelong member of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord, Humboldt and Blanshard Streets.

Mrs. Tobin was known to hundreds of Victorians through her long association with Clay's Bakery, Fort Street, owned by her husband, Arthur H. Tobin, who predeceased her in 1946.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Leon Borde, a daughter, Kathleen, a son, Brian, and four grandchildren, all of Victoria. Funeral arrangements are being made by Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co. for 3:30 p.m. Thursday at the Church of Our Lord.

Topics of the Day

New system of towing away illegally parked cars during the rush hours should be inaugurated April 1, the city's advisory committee on traffic recommended today.

A contract with Victoria Super Service Towing Limited has been negotiated for the service since its bid was selected after a tender call several months ago.

If city council Thursday ratifies the contract, police will be able to call the company to tow-away cars parked in prohibited zones during the 4 to 5:30 p.m. period. Violators of the prohibition would have to pay a fine, towing charge and any applicable storage fees to get their cars back.

Purchasing Agents of B.C. will hold their annual joint meeting with the B.C. Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade April 1 at 6:15 p.m. in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

After-dinner speaker will be T. L. Sturges, deputy minister of trade and commerce.

Vancouver Island chess champion Olavi Sarakannas is still in the lead in the city championship tournament with Charles Birch in second place and Karl Loeschnik and Jim Hobson tied for third.

Al Holznacht won two games, Jim Hobson won one and Charles Birch and Karl Loeschnik drew a game in this week's play.

In the club championship tournament Cliff Woodcock and Alan Lane each won a game and Dr. O. Olson and Martin Schulz made a draw.

Snow on up-Island roads has forced Victoria Motor Sports Club to postpone its Dapedo rally scheduled for Sunday.

In its place an autocross, a timed field trial, will be held at Butler Bros. gravel pit, off Keating Rd., starting at 11:30 a.m.

Q.—Does any country have television telephones?—M.S.

A.—Television telephones, a device whereby you can see the person you are talking to, are still in the experimental stage and have not been developed for commercial use.

Lecturers in universities in the eastern United States have been using telephones associated with closed-circuit television to talk to many classrooms at once.

CLUBWOMEN'S NEWS

Welfare—F. R. Jeffs, a social worker in the Saanich welfare office, spoke on welfare services in the municipality, when the Saanich Branch of the Association of Women Electors met in the Duart Road home of Mrs. A. H. Gunning. Detailed reports were heard of council meetings and public hearings, held during the past month. Next meeting will be held Thursday, April 16, at 8 p.m. in home of Dr. M. Sherman, 2901 Sea View Road.

Physiotherapy—Sum of $65 for a medico table loan to be used in the Gorge Road Hospital's physiotherapy department was voted when the hospital's auxiliary met recently. Mrs. K. L. Cook, Mrs. S. S. Smethurst and Mrs. H. T. Shemilt were appointed conveners of garden party, to be held in early June. It was announced that $80 had been realized at recent bridge tea. Mrs. P. L. Bonnell and Mrs. C. W. Lundgren were welcomed as new members.

The forthcoming marriage is announced of Marie Annette Gibbins, only daughter of Mrs. Margaret Gibbins, 1045 Esquimalt Road, and the late Mr. Frank Gibbins, to Mr. Robert Michael West, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Contrasting Silk or Crepe Gives Old Suit New Lift

Here's an idea I promised to give you that's sure to give your old suit a new lift. Get enough silk or crepe in a color that contrasts with your suit to cover the lapels, collar, and to make an over-blouse.

When applying to the collar and lapels, hand whip the edges of the silk to your garment fabric, placing finished edges of silk about 1/8 inch from finished edge of garment. Be sure to keep the stitches loose so they won't pull and show. Make a matching blouse or over-blouse, and you'll have the latest look for Spring '64. This could also be done on a coat.

Tuck Scarf Ends In Your Bra

"Dear Eunice: Many magazine pictures show chiffon scarves at the neckline of coats and suits and they always look so neat. When I wear a scarf, it always gets loose and sloppy looking. Any clues will be a big help."

Mrs. J. C.

Dear Mrs. J. C.: There are tricks to every trade, and I'll let you in on this one which I learned from a professional model. Cross the scarf at the neckline, and tuck the ends tightly into your bra. The scarf won't pull out and will look neat for many hours.

Scarves in coats may be tucked down into the sleeves of your coat and this, too, is a neat solution.

Spoon mixture of 1/2 cup cranberry sauce and 1/4 cup brown sugar into greased muffin tins. Top with refrigerator bake and serve biscuits. Use a hot oven (400 degrees F.) to bake this quick breakfast treat.

BE SMART—

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Benefits of Exercise End When You Quit

You cannot "can" the benefits of physical exercise. The benefits cannot be stored up. Many middle-aged women do not understand the physiological importance of regularity in exercise.

Daily exercise is extremely important for the middle-aged woman, although of course it should be adapted to the individual.

The well-adjusted person must have some interest outside of the usual routine.

At mid-life many women are nervous, worried about chronic fatigue and chronic disease, are fraught with tensions and apprehensions. It is important to have some means with which to break the stress of life, with which to preserve the inter-relationship between the physical and the emotional.

Losing oneself in physical activity is one way. It would be difficult to worry when playing a tight game of golf or a fast game of tennis. You are not likely to worry when playing table tennis, riding horseback.

Women's Brains May Win The War

OTTAWA (CP)—The Western world may lose the battle with communism because it is not making full use of women's brainpower, says Marguerite E. Ritchie, a senior counsel in the justice department.

"In Canada we have geniuses wasting their time over the kitchen sink while Russian women are accepted as the equals of men in all professions and in government."

Edmonton-born Miss Ritchie, a lawyer in the justice department for 16 years, says the reason women are accepted in all professions behind the Iron Curtain and in most of the world's newer nations is that "these countries have had to use not just half but all their human resources."

"They have had to throw away traditional taboos about women in professional life, along with many other outdated ideas."

In her childhood, even then a confirmed feminist, she wanted to become either an archaeologist or a lawyer.

PARENTS UNDERSTOOD

"I wasn't very impressed with the role assigned to women then and I feel the same way today."

Eventually, she chose law. "I felt I could be of more service to people as a lawyer than as an archaeologist. It was fortunate that my parents assumed from the beginning that there was no difference between the intellect of boys and girls, and gave me full freedom to become what I wished."

At 44, the charming, raven-haired Miss Ritchie hasn't lost her femininity while dabbling in the eternal battle of the sexes. A casual observer might mistake her for one of Parliament Hill's many attractive secretaries.

She keeps her own male secretary busy while she attends daily sittings of the House of Commons and gives legal advice on many of the complex problems that come before the justice department.

HANDLED TRUST CASES

She is a special liaison officer between the departments of justice and external affairs.

In this capacity, she has worked on the drafting of several international documents and acted as legal adviser to Canadian delegations at international conferences.

Miss Ritchie received her bachelor of arts and law degrees from the University of Alberta, her master of laws degree in international air law from McGill University and spent one year of her legal studies at Dalhousie University, Halifax.

After being called to the Alberta bar, she came to Ottawa to learn about government practices and was first employed as an investigator with the combines commission. A highlight of this assignment was her participation in the western bread prosecution of 1949-51 which established a jurisprudence that has been used in subsequent combines cases.

On the subject of marriage, Miss Ritchie says:

Marguerite E. Ritchie says the Western World could lose in the battle against communism because it is not taking advantage of the brainpower of women. (CP-photo.)

"To me, marriage offered absolutely nothing but I feel many married women underestimate themselves. Madame Curie would have been just another housewife if she hadn't been forced by circumstances to continue a profession she started before marriage."

"Women shouldn't be forced to choose between marriage and a career, but should insist on their right to do both if they wish."

In her limited spare time, Miss Ritchie enjoys reading. "I like to study what makes people act as they do and am very interested in anthropology and archeology."

She has visited Europe twice and recently went to Norway and Greece.

"While in Greece I travelled to the tiny island of Delos, mentioned in one of Lord Byron's poems. As I walked along Mild weather with more than a hint of sunshine, on Tuesday, gave members of the ladies' division of the Uplands Golf Club an opportunity to enjoy a two-ball foursome to mark opening of the season. Golfers included, from the left, Betty Cranston, Alice Caddell, Mary Robertson and Irene Rodway.

Assisting the captain with opening arrangements were Mrs. W. Herbert, Mrs. G. Goy, Mrs. A. Sutton, Mrs. J. Riddell and Mrs. H. G. McWilliams.

First Round Winner

Announcement was made by the president, Mrs. Sybil McCulloch, at meeting of Arbutus Toastmistress Club, that a member, Mrs. H. Winstone, was named winner in the first round of the Golden Gavel Speech contest. She will compete in the finals on April 3.

Theme of the evening was "Community Affairs". A new member, Mrs. C. Dowling, was inducted by membership chairman, Mrs. R. S. Butt, and gave an introductory speech.

Mrs. H. Ker conducted the table topic in which several members read selected clippings from the local press.

Toastmistress, Mrs. W. Howes, presented a program in the form of a radio broadcast titled "Ladies Opinion—A Panel Discussion from Radio CHAT."

A tape recording of the evening was taken and played back to give each member the opportunity of hearing and evaluating her own voice.

Anne Cooper Again Heads Auxiliary

At annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to Family and Children's Service, held recently in Spencer House, Mrs. Anne Cooper was unanimously re-elected president. Other officers are Mrs. B. Young, first vice-president; Mrs. N. J. Hibbard, second vice-president; Mrs. L. Blackmore, secretary and Mrs. A. Fawcett, corresponding secretary.

Reports showed the auxiliary had given assistance to many needed areas of the service in the past year.

A total of $1,617.47 was raised from various projects.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Brian Tobin, editor of the Victoria Daily Times and chairman of the board of the Family and Children's Service. He gave a brief history of the service which originated in 1895 under the auspices of the Local Council of Women.

George Wright, Family and Children's service director, introduced the new assistant director, Arthur Ripley.

Two new members were welcomed, Mrs. M. K. Smith and Mrs. E. G. Porter.

TO MARRY

TOKYO (AP)—Prince Yoshio, Emperor Hirohito's youngest son, will marry Miss Hanako Tsugura Sept. 30—shortly before the Tokyo Olympics, the imperial household agency announced today. The 28-year-old prince and the sports-loving Miss Hanako, 23, are to be formally engaged April 14.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sykes are pictured on the patio of their townhouse apartment in the Cedar, at Christie Point. Mr. Sykes came to Victoria to retire from North Bay, Ontario. They have this to say:

"Christie Point suits us fine, giving us the advantage of a house and apartment. With large trees and water back and front, a combination of city and camp. We look through the trees at the busy water fowl—Canada Geese, Ducks, Gulls, Loons, and many others. It is a lovely spot. Then our two-storey house, so well equipped, so convenient, with its gardens back and front, ideal for us older folks—it is certainly our cup of tea."

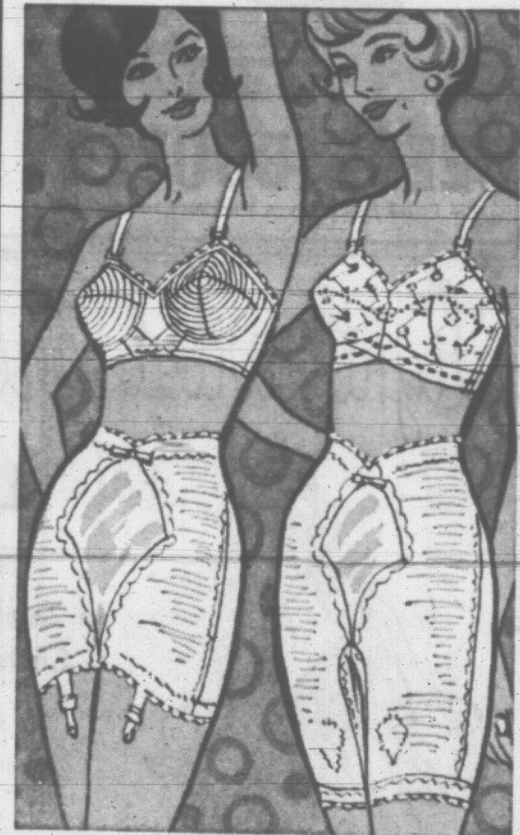

Christie Point Apartments, a development of Consolidated Building Corporation, are located on Craigowan Rd., off Highway 1-A just past Craigflower Bridge. The Rental Office is open daily from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., and the phone is EV 5-0644. You, too, can rent an apartment at Christie Point for as little as $110 a month.

Tips On How To Land That Job

OTTAWA (CP)—It's your first job interview and you're scared out of your wits. You sit in the waiting room, nervously rubbing your hands together and mopping your shiny nose.

How do you overcome that nervous tension?

"Breathe deeply," says Margaret McIrvine, co-ordinator of women's employment for the National Employment Service.

"It may sound silly, but if you try it you'll see what I mean. While you are waiting to see a prospective employer, breathe deeply, right down to the bottom of your lungs.

"You'll find this helps to relax you and keeps that nervous quaver from your voice."

Miss McIrvine, who learned the technique when she studied voice control, says it is also important to be neatly dressed and well-groomed when you set out to look for a new job.

WEAR GLOVES

The first thing to remember is that it's better to err on the side of conservatism. If you have a choice between wearing a tailored suit or your best silk dress, choose the suit. Gloves are a must. A small hat also looks neat.

Avoid a fussy hair-do. The employer may think you'll have to spend all day looking after it.

Similarly, shun elaborate jewelry. A small brooch or subdued necklace looks attractive, but avoid armloads of bangles or dangling earrings.

Be sure to be on time for the interview. Your prospective employer may be seeing a number of people that day, and may keep you waiting. On the other hand, he may not be particularly busy and will be glancing at his watch when you arrive five minutes late.

Miss McIrvine says a well-prepared personal data sheet is invaluable to any job hunter. It should list all the pertinent facts about your education and qualifications, including all previous experience. "Don't overlook any summer jobs you may have held during high school or college years."

The data sheet should be typewritten if possible and should answer all the obvious questions a prospective employer would ask about you.

ANSWER FULLY

"Try to send him a copy before your interview. If he, or she, has a chance to read it before seeing you, the interview will be more relaxed and easier for you both."

If you are applying at several different places, be sure to have enough copies of your data sheet so that you can leave one with each prospective employer, says Miss McIrvine.

Some other pointers about job hunting from the women's employment co-ordinator:

—Be prepared to answer questions fully. Don't give bare yes or no answers when you can avoid them.

—Try not to talk too fast, however nervous you may be. No one expects you to know the answer before the question is asked. Be deliberate. Think about the question before you answer.

—Most prospective employers make allowance for the fact that you may be nervous. If you clam up, or talk a blue streak, they will probably forgive you if your qualifications are suitable, says Miss McIrvine.

TODAY'S RECIPE

CRANBERRY SALAD — One pound fresh or frozen fresh cranberries coarsely ground, 2 medium apples, ground, ¼ cup sugar, 1 package strawberry flavored gelatin, 1 cup boiling water, 1 quart mold or 6-8 individual molds.

Mix ground cranberries and apples with the sugar. Dissolve strawberry gelatin in boiling water. Chill until partially set. Fold cranberry mixture into partially set gelatin. Pour into a 1-quart mold or six to eight individual molds. Chill until firm. Unmold on lettuce leaves and surround with fresh orange slices.

Outstanding example of an ensemble a young woman might wear when looking for work, is this suit of Tattersall check from the Canadiana collection, with collar, flaps and cuffs cut on the bias. Shirt is cut entirely on the bias and is made with box pleats all the way around. Fitted jacket has shirt-waist sleeves.

Discover 15 New Drugs To Fight Breast Cancer

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Fifteen new and potentially valuable drugs against female breast cancer—uncovered by a new radioactive screening technique—are soon to undergo extensive human trials, it was reported Tuesday.

"And we are awaiting the results with considerable excitement," said Dr. Ralph I. Dorfman of Shrewsbury, Mass., one of a team of scientists who developed the new drug screening method and also submitted the new drugs to early preliminary trials.

Dr. Dorfman, of the Worcester, Mass., Foundation for Experimental Biology, told about the new developments at the annual seminar for science writers sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Asserting that the new drugs are all synthetic preparations chemically related to the male sex hormone testosterone—the first hormone used in treating female breast cancer—the scientist said:

1. Two of the drugs, as indicated by early animal and human trials, are as good or better than the best hormone now available for clinical use against breast cancer.

2. Six others possess anti-tumor activity of "the same order" as the best previously available material of this class; and seven others possess "considerable activity."

The scientist indicated, however, that none of the new drugs was expected to cure a cancer — though some might extend survival times beyond present limits in cases not curable by surgery or radiation.

English Girls Plan Horseback Trip, Winnipeg To Vancouver

LONDON (CP)—Two English girls are heading the call of the wide-open spaces—they want to see from horseback the vast Canadian prairie and the land of "mountain lions and lumberjacks."

Ann Lewin and Gail Brownrigg, both 21, will arrive in Saint John, N.B., via Rotterdam aboard the British cargo vessel Sacramento, sometime this week.

Then they intend to travel to Winnipeg, buy horses and jog the 1,600 miles to Vancouver. Friends and horseback enthusiasts since childhood, they hope to reach Calgary in time for the Calgary Stampede and Vancouver in September.

"People josh us by saying we should carry pistols to frighten away the bear, mountain lions—and lumberjacks—but we have no foolish fears," said Ann the night she left her home in Bramley.

Ann, a civil servant, and Gail, a secretary from Guildford, have been planning their great adventure a long time and chose Canada partly because they won't be harried by quarantine regulations for their horses, as would happen in Europe.

The Canadian travel service has been helping the girls and they are particularly looking forward to the Stampede, to which they've been invited as guests.

A Bramley blacksmith has been showing them how to make emergency repairs to their horses' hooves—and anyway we won't need very big horses."

The girls will write accounts of their journey for their local Surrey newspaper and possibly also for Lord Beaverbrook's Evening Standard. They plan on getting jobs in Vancouver and then perhaps travelling in other countries.

RIDING TO HOUNDS as Eridge Hunt here, under Maj. Field Marsham, is here setting out to do, does not always equate with chasing a fox any more. Ancient British sport is now plagued by Hunt Saboteurs Association, which aims to mislead dogs and save foxes. (CP photo.)

UNPEACEFUL SABOTEURS OF HUNT

Uneatable Fox Finds Ally Against Unspeakable Foes

By DOUG MARSHALL
LONDON (CP) — Oscar Wilde's unspeakable hunters are still pursuing uneatable foxes but these days the quarry has an unpeaceable ally.

The Hunt Saboteurs Association, formed last year by John Prestidge, a 21-year-old freelance journalist from Brixham, Devon, is determined to thwart foxhunting by every militant means available within the law. How do the saboteurs work? Mainly by confusing the most vulnerable element in the hunting ritual—the hounds. Picture the scene:

It's a village inn somewhere in Sussex on a frosty January morning. Some 20 or 30 riders in bright hunting pink are passing around the stirrup cup, anticipating a two-hour center across the hard green downs.

Around them will go or 40 couple of hungry yapping keen-scented hounds—reared and trained to have little interest in life other than the detection and pursuit of wily foxes.

LAY FALSE TRAILS

Suddenly the hounds don't look so hungry any more. Forsooth, some cad has dumped 50 pounds of freshly butchered horse meat into their midst and even the most traditional of dogs can see the difference between an immediate meal and one he has to run several difficult miles for.

Appealing to a dog's stomach, the centre of canine reasoning, is just one tactic. Prestidge and his cohorts have also laid false trails with aniseed into improbable hunting grounds—such as cemeteries—and numbered hounds' nostrils with acetone sprays.

"We're changing tactics all the time," says Prestidge. "There are several new ideas pouring in but they obviously have to be kept secret."

Prestidge started his association with a small legacy and 25 original members. Now the association claims more than 1,000 saboteurs operating in all parts of the country and its funds have been boosted by large donations from non-active well-wishers.

KILL 20,000 FOXES

The saboteurs are up against one of the most entrenched and powerful elements in English society. There are nearly 200 packs of hounds recognized by Britain's Masters of Foxhounds Association and running a pack costs about £5,000 a year.

Altogether about 20,000 people ride regularly to the hounds and succeed in killing about 20,000 foxes a year—a death toll that keeps the fox population roughly static. Vixen and their cubs are not pursued and as often as possible the trapped quarry is given a coup de grace with a gun before being torn to pieces.

Foxhunting had been causing a view—bullabuloo in Britain long before Wilde wittily registered his disgust. Today the rift between those who think hunting a "filthy ritual" and those who see it as "a golden thread running through the tapestry of our countryside" is as wide as ever.

The august Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals is bitterly divided between hunters and anti-hunters. The League Against Cruel Sports has so far done little more than erect placards and picket hunting countries. Will sabotage succeed where words and reasoning have failed? Prestidge thinks so.

HUNTERS RETALIATED

"The work is done mostly by young people and wherever we've got a group we'll have a go. At the moment we are concentrating on training people, teaching them not to retaliate and to avoid fines."

Passive resistance has its drawbacks. Recently some frustrated Surrey huntsmen launched a cavalry charge with whips flailing at 30 saboteurs and are reported to have knocked some girls into a ditch before police intervened.

EDUCATION DRIVE

U.K. Retarded Will Get Aid

By CAROL KENNEDY
LONDON (CP)—A new drive is under way to tackle the problems of educating mentally handicapped children—the "submerged sixth" of Britain's high school population.

The man behind it is Stanley Segal, headmaster of a special school and chairman of the guild of teachers of backward children.

Segal, a small dark man with an infectious zeal, has two projects rolling—a four-year course of graded textbooks for backward students, first comprehensive program of its kind, and a plan to found a Kennedy Institute for special education and research dedicated to the late U.S. president.

The first project has just been launched by the London publishers, Cassell's, a firm noted in Victorian times for its pioneering work in "penny educators" for the masses. Called "The Working World," the series is designed to develop powers of expression and creativity in backward pupils of high school age and to enable them to emerge as integrated members of society instead of "second-class citizens."

The books, written by a team of specialist teachers, are expected to be on sale in Canada in the fall, after minor adjustments to text and illustrations.

OTHER THEMES

Subsequent yearly themes deal with the neighborhood, the wider world and careers. The course is described as a 1962.

"unique venture" because up to now there has been no planned program for retarded pupils of high school age, though a number of so-called "backward readers" exist for younger children.

Older children classed as "educationally sub-normal"—IQ below 85—have had to struggle to keep up with brighter classmates or use infant-style books that insult their sensitivities and make them painfully aware of being "different." Either way, school is likely to be an agonizing experience.

Educationists are conscious of difficulty in arousing public or political interest in this problem. As one expert put it, there is "a great political glamor attached to the building of new universities, far less to the needs of 'the other end of the scale.'"

Segal hopes his plan for a Kennedy institute may catch this interest now that the government is considering the form of Britain's national memorial to the president. He has set up a steering committee to urge government approval of his project as part of the memorial, but if this doesn't succeed, he plans to raise the money some other way.

"One way or another there will be a Kennedy institute," he said.

MADE MORE VEHICLES

A total of 2,667,883 motor vehicles were manufactured in West Germany in 1963, an increase of 13.2 per cent over 1962.

HARBOR BODY CAN'T HELP

NANAIMO (CP)—The Nanaimo Harbor Commission has no money to participate in a professional planner's survey of the downtown and adjacent harbor area, chairman George Muir said Monday night.

He told a meeting of city council, the advisory planning commission and harbor commission members that development plans already were being laid for the waterfront costing some $1,000,000 this year.

"We have our own plans and I would not want to put the commission in a position of having to shape our plans to what this proposed professional planner might draw up," he said.

Canadians to Man Alaska Train-Ship

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canadian seamen and a Liberian flag will be used on a new American-owned train ferry service to Alaska which will compete with an existing Canadian service.

Alaska Trainship Corporation, which plans to start the service from New Westminster to Whittier, Alaska, in May, said today negotiations are under way for a union contract for Canadian seamen.

Canadian pilots will also be employed along the British Columbia coastal portion of the Alaska trip.

The service is being established by Alaska Trainship Corporation in collaboration with four major United States railways that service the Seattle area.

The new service will compete directly with Canadian National Railway's car-barge service from Prince Rupert to Whittier. This service has been operating one year transshipping loaded railway cars that are sent to the northern B.C. port from mid-western U.S. cities.

The Japanese-built car ferry City of New Orleans, which formerly ran between New Orleans and Havana, will be used to carry the cars from New Westminster to Whittier. Renamed Alaska, the ship will transport up to 56 loaded boxcars.

China Army Huge, Limited

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Strength of the Communist Chinese army is placed by an authoritative source at 2,000,000 men, according to reports received by the national defence and made public Monday in an article in the Canadian Army Journal.

Behind the regular Chinese Communist army stands a gigantic militia. The Chinese authorities claim that this force has a total strength of 200,000,000 men and women.

Of this number it is possible that 30,000,000 are sufficiently trained and equipped to be effective in the field, states Major N. A. Shackleton, author of the article. Title of the article is "The War-Making Potential of Communist China."

It is an appraisal of the strength of the Communist Chinese. It has been published just ahead of the Canadian defence department's white paper being tabled in the Commons by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer.

For the present the report finds that the offensive capability of the Chinese armed forces against a first-rate power would be confined to land operations. In their selection of objectives the Chinese are further restricted in those areas in which their deficiencies in air support, heavy weapons, transport, fuel and interior communications can be sustained by the endurance and amplitude of their manpower.

But in 10 years Maj. Shackleton warns, perhaps in less than a decade, there seems little doubt that the Chinese army will be supported by an industrial base that could provide most of the warlike material required by a modern army. The author is employed in the directorate of combat development at army headquarters in Ottawa.

Nuclear Program Close Secret

The report finds that the nuclear weapons program is the most closely guarded secret in China today.

It is known, however, that China has the resources, the knowledge and the skills to become a nuclear power. The Chinese were formally launched into the field of nuclear technology with the opening of an experimental reactor at Peking in 1958.

"If at this time it was decided to create a plutonium producing industry on a sufficiently large scale, it is possible that the requisite material for one or two test devices could be available for 1964," Maj. Shackleton wrote.

Other findings by the major in the departmental appreciation of China's war-making strength are:

1. The navy—Chinese naval forces are handicapped by obsolescence of their Soviet equipment. The principal offensive capability is found in a fleet of 25 submarines. There are four destroyers, 19 frigates, 28 minesweepers and several hundred miscellaneous vessels including 50 landing ships and craft. China also possesses a fleet of 10,000 junks, many armed and motorized.

2. The air force—here again the Chinese are at a disadvantage because of the obsolescence of some of their Soviet equipment. The air force has an estimated 3,000 front-line aircraft consisting of 2,000 MIG 15, 17 and 19's together with 500 light jet bombers and some TU4 reconnaissance bombers. The strength includes an unknown quantity of Soviet transport planes and helicopters. Chinese production of MIG aircraft is estimated at 20 to 25 planes a month.

3. The army consists of 30 to 35 armies, each of which is comparable to a European corps. An army comprises three infantry divisions; the strength of the division is 12,000 to 17,000 men. There are three armored divisions and at least two airborne divisions.

Army Serves As Labor Force, Too

The Chinese army is predominantly an infantry force. Heavy artillery, armor and mechanical transport are largely of Soviet origin. China has an unknown quantity of Joseph Stalin heavy tanks, T34 medium tanks and SU (self propelled) guns.

The manufacture of tanks is carried on, but the type of vehicle and volume of production is not definitely known. Small arms, mortars, mines, rocket launchers and light artillery are now produced in quantity. At one time Soviet trucks were assembled in China but with recently strained relations with the Soviet, this has been discontinued.

If the entire production of the Changchun truck factory was diverted to the army the Chinese infantry could be motorized in less than three years, Maj. Shackleton reported.

"In peacetime the disposition of Chinese units tends to remain static, probably for economy and for ease of administration.

Chinese units grow much of their own food; and unlike their counterparts in many backward countries, they work. The army constitutes a reserve of organized labor and it is employed at times on a variety of rural and industrial projects. The Wukang iron and steel factory is an example: construction of this plant absorbed the labor of an entire division for three years," said Maj. Shackleton.

In conclusion he found that except for a number of refugees comprising a minute fraction of one per cent of the population, there seemed few reasons for supposing that China's government lacked popular support, or that the form of government was likely to change. Food was a major problem. The major element of China's war making potential is its vast reservoir of military manpower. The standard of the troops now surpasses that of the men who fought in Korea.

UVIC ACTORS NEED JOBS TO GET BY

Twenty-three university students need good-paying jobs in Victoria this summer in order to take part in the 400th anniversary Shakespearean festival and still make enough money to pay expenses for next winter's session.

The students are actors or behind-scenes workers involved in the University of Victoria productions of "Midsummer Night's Dream", "Richard III" and "The Alchemist", being presented July 16 to August 8 at Lansdowne auditorium.

Students usually must go to out-of-town jobs to get the higher pay necessary for the more than $900 term expenses.

Employers having offers should contact the university placement service, EV 6-5511.

JOINT COMMITTEE

Senate to Join In Pension Study

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Judy LaMarsh has invited the Senate—whose role is to give Commons bills a sober second thought—to sit in on the Commons committee investigation of the controversial Canada Pension Plan.

The committee, which will hold public hearings, is to be composed of 24 MPs and 12 senators, with joint chairmen representing the two houses. So far the personnel has not been selected.

By inviting senators to participate in the committee work while the bill is going through the Commons it will not be necessary to have further committee hearings when the bill reaches the Senate.

The joint committee will operate under Commons committee rules since the proposal for the study stems from the Commons.

Miss LaMarsh's motion, which was to appear on the Commons order paper today, empowers the committee to subpoena witnesses, demand the production of papers and records, and to make as many reports to the two houses of Parliament as it wishes.

LAURELS FOR POET — Poet Phyllis McGinley is this year's recipient of University of Notre Dame's Laetare Medal, conferred annually on an outstanding American Catholic layman. In private life she is Mrs. Charles Hayden.

Rose Seeks Name To Smell Sweet

Peace and Karl Herbst can't decide on a name for their offspring.

It probably won't even be named Herbst—enough to turn anyone pink.

But a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, and the pink-faced unnamed rose developed by Victoria's Fred Blakeney is destined for fame.

Mr. Blakeney's rose has been adopted by the Canadian Nursery Trades Association. It was hybridized at his home on 963 Arundel as a 1967 Canadian centennial project.

"Rose fanciers across Canada will be delighted to hear that a Canadian-bred rose will be available to celebrate our 100th birthday," an association spokesman said.

"There is no doubt of its strength and fragrance. It is one of the very few roses of merit ever developed in Canada."

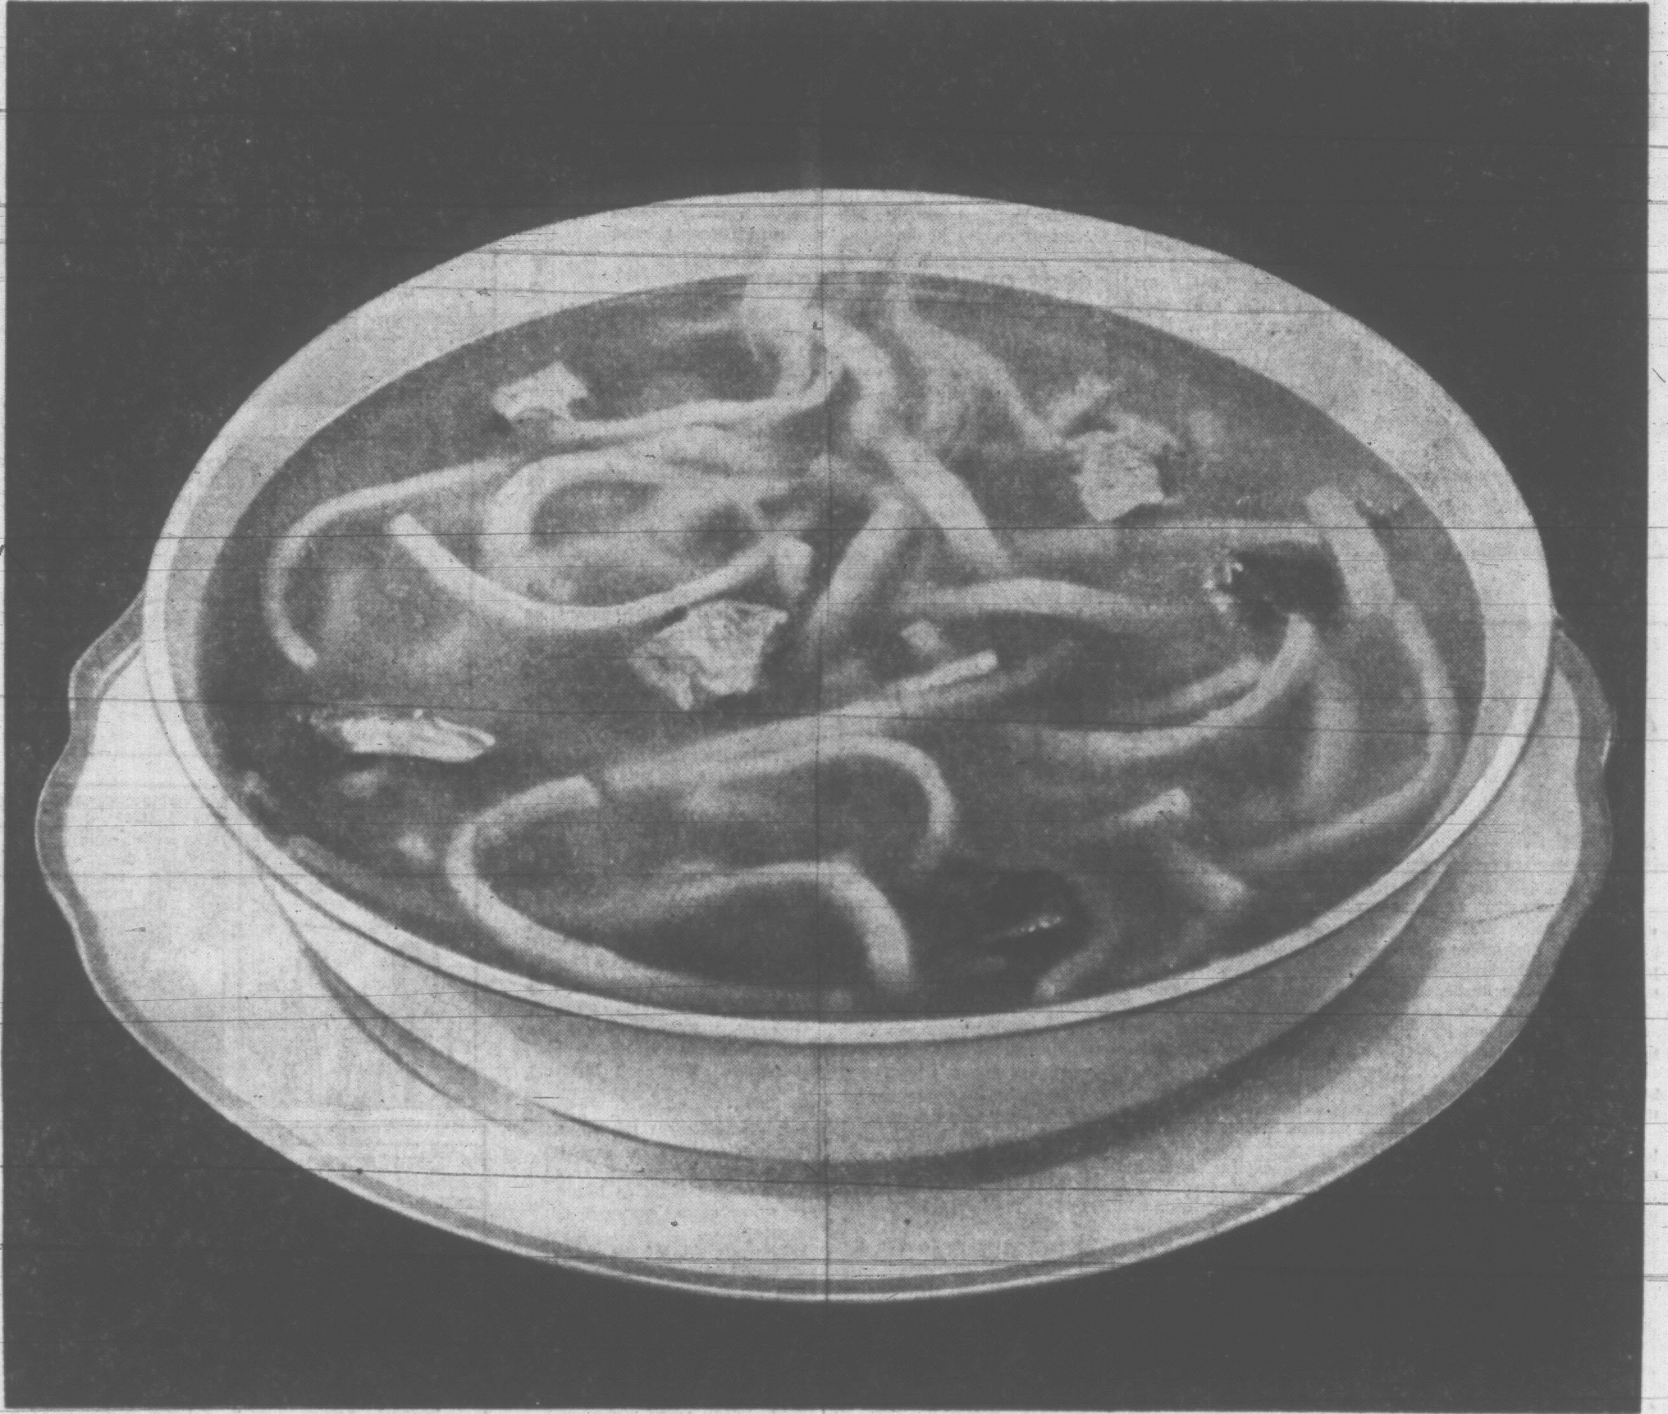

The fact that it has no name is because of a pending court case involving a rose submitted by an American firm for the centennial.

The rose is pink on the face of its petals and silvery white on the reverse, said Mr. Blakeney.

It is about 5 inches in diameter, and was hybridized from the roses Peace and Karl Herbst.

The project began with a germinated seed in 1957.

It will go on the market in 1966, and some plants will be in parks and experimental gardens next year.

U.S. Firm Won't Fight Charges Over Drug

WASHINGTON (AP)—A major U.S. drug manufacturer entered a no contest plea in U.S. district court Tuesday to charges of filing false statements about an anti-cholesterol drug known as MER-29.

Canada Holds Door Open On Red China

OTTAWA (CP)—The government said Monday it has no intention "at the moment" to drop Canada's 14-year opposition to diplomatic recognition of Communist China, but was careful to leave the door open for such a step later.

"The rapid evolution of the situation in the Far East does not permit us today to predict the future," the Commons was told by Stanley Haidasz, parliamentary secretary to External Affairs Minister Martin.

He said in a return to Louis Joseph Pigeon (PC—Joliette—Assomption—Montreal) that four factors must be weighed carefully before a decision is made to recognize the Peking government:

1. Canada's role in international control commissions in Indo-China, which seek to enforce truce agreements between Communist and non-Communist elements.

2. The stability of the situation in Southeast Asia.

3. The "future" of the Nationalist Chinese population on Formosa.

4. "Possible repercussions" at the United Nations, where bids to seat Red China have failed every year since 1950.

The William S. Merrell Company, its parent firm, Richardson-Merrell Incorporated, and three of its former research scientists all withdrew pleas of not guilty and pleaded nolo contendere before Chief Judge Matthew F. McGuire. The scientists are Harold W. Werner, Everett F. Van Maanen and William M. King.

McGuire asked lawyers and defendants whether they knew a plea of nolo contendere was "tantamount to a plea of guilty." All said they understood. The judge ordered a presentencing investigation before final disposition of the case.

Meanwhile in Minneapolis Monday out-of-court settlements totalling $246,000 were agreed to in five injury suits for $1,900,000 against Richardson-Merrell involving MER-29.

REACH AGREEMENT

The suits had been scheduled for trial Thursday but agreement was reached between company lawyers and counsel for the plaintiffs.

Plaintiffs in the Minnesota cases claimed that soon after taking MER-29 the patients developed scaly skin, loss of hair and suffered eye cataracts.

The indictment said the drug, also known as Triparanol, is alleged to have caused eye damage, loss of hair and a loss of sexual desire. It was on the market from April 1960 to April 1962.

The Merrell Company pleaded no contest to six counts of the 12-count indictment, Richardson-Merrell to two counts and the scientists each to one count. Four other counts will be dropped by the government, James W. Knapp, justice department lawyer said.

A special message from Campbell to Chicken Noodle fans:

You can give your family the delicious nourishment of chicken soup in four other good ways. Here's how.

PROBABLY YOU and your family have been enjoying Campbell's Chicken Noodle Soup for years.

For instance, Campbell's Chicken with Rice. The broth (like all our chicken broths) is simmered from the whole chicken.

Then Campbell adds plump pieces of chicken: juicy white meat, tasty dark meat.

Spices? A variety—to give you just-right seasoning.

Campbell's Chicken Gumbo is chicken soup with a zesty southern twist.

Tender chicken, rice, tomatoes and fresh vegetables all go into Chicken Gumbo. But it's okra, a flavourful,

Campbell's Chicken Vegetable Soup contains fresh, wholesome vegetables—the kind you get in our Vegetable Soup. With the extra nourishment of chicken.

Chicken Vegetable is a substantial soup. So nice to come home to on March days that come in like a lion.

Then there's Campbell's Cream of Chicken. It's made with farm-fresh cream, seasoned with onions, celery and savoury spices. A luxurious soup.

It's a versatile sauce as well; does marvellous things for vegetables, gravies, and the common casserole.

We don't suggest that Chicken Noodle fans give up their favourite chicken soup entirely.

On the other hand, it might be pleasant to serve one of Campbell's other delicious chicken soups—just for a change.

SOLUTION MONDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Eddie Albert, one of the world's favorite people, had such admirers as the Harry Belafontes and Eleanor Powell ringsiding at the Latin Quarter when he became a Broadway saloon star. They applauded him out for an encore at the end and he said, "We just started this act . . . and frankly, that's all we've got." . . . So he told a story of an alleged experience after he'd done his first show. He said he arrived feebly at the bar and perspiring said to the bartender, "Give me something tall, cold and full of gin." A customer bowed and said, "Take my wife."

Jackie Gleason hasn't yet visited the Miami Beach Auditorium where he'll originate his CBS TV show next year—no need to—but he's already making preparations for a boat trip to take important members of the cast (including lotsa pretty dancing girls) down south. Jackie'll live at the Doral Country Club in a kindly suite of five rooms. . . . The Hollywood Writers Guild kidded Otto Preminger about "The Cardinal" by saying the Protestants wanted to give him an award for not doing a film about their religion.

Buddy Hackett decided not to enter the Comedians Golf Tournament. Couldn't get all the required equipment on his golfmobile; himself, his clubs, and the lie detector.

Eddie Fisher's long-time aides, Bernice Rich and Bob Abrams, have gone to work for Mike Todd, Jr., sort of breaking up that Old Gang. . . . Richard Burton calls everybody "Love," both boys and girls. He'd better watch it when he gets to NY and ventures into certain neighborhoods!

Patricia Neal, who's declined Otto Preminger's offer to star in "Harm's Way" (because she's expecting), is deeply touched at the response to her performance in "Hud." She writes me from Buckinghamshire, England, "It brought me honors that I never hoped for and certainly did not anticipate . . . but I am most grateful for the warm good wishes from masses of people!" . . .

THE MIDNIGHT EARL . . .

Record execs say that the first time ever, one group of artists (the Beatles) has the four top songs on the charts. . . . Frank Sinatra Jr.'s mgr., Tino Barzile, will also manage Sugar Ray Robinson.

Cassius Clay's most frequent date reportedly is a beauty contest winner, Marva Revis. . . . There are negotiations for Jason Robards to star in "After the Fall" in London, too. . . . Eartha Kitt's soon-due book will be titled "Mother, Mother, Quite Contrary, How Does Your Kiddie Grow?" . . . Eleanor Powell's willing to cut short her big-money cafe tour to do a B-way show—at least down.

Dorothy Dandridge returns to Las Vegas after 10 years—Sept. 3 at the Flamingo—just a block away from ex-husband Jack Denison's cafe. . . . Ozzie Nelson will produce, write and direct the film "Love and Kisses."

which'll star his son Nick. . . . A new N.Y. club is called MR. SWORD; its members are Separated, Widowed OR Divorced. . . . French comic Fernandel will tour the U.S. this summer with his son Franck, also a comedian. . . . Playboy magazine's planning to enter the record business.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: A gal confided that she and her boyfriend disagreed: "I want a big wedding, and he doesn't want to get married."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: "The person who first said beauty is only skin deep," claims Taffy Tuttle, "must have been an ugly girl with awful deep skin."

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "A banquet is often just a place of cold chicken and anaemic green peas entirely surrounded by dreary speakers and appeals for donations."—Anon.

EARL'S PEARLS: Nonnee Coan says his wife went to a special shoe sale: "Both the prices and the sizes were marked down."

Pat O'Brien tells at Basin St. of the golf-playing priest who claimed he never swore when he missed a stroke: "Instead, I spit—but where I spit, nothing green ever grows again." That's earl, brother.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Miriam T. Herr, age 10, of Lancaster, Pa., for her question:

Why don't we see a full moon all the time?

On earth, the day follows the night. The moon also has days and nights. But each lunar day and night period is about two earth weeks long. The moon always faces the earth with the same side, and it takes about four weeks for a lunar day and night to follow each other across our side of the moon.

When our side of the moon is dimmed in the shadows of night, we cannot see it at all. We can see only the part that is lit with golden sunshine. When the moon is full, our side is all in daylight. Then the lunar night begins to creep across, hiding more and more of the moon. Most of the time, part of our side of the moon is in daylight and part is hidden in the shadows of the lunar night.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book globe to Miriam T. Herr, age 10, of Lancaster, Pa., for her question:

Why don't we see a full moon all the time?

On earth, the day follows the night. The moon also has days and nights. But each lunar day and night period is about two earth weeks long. The moon always faces the earth with the same side, and it takes about four weeks for a lunar day and night to follow each other across our side of the moon.

When our side of the moon is dimmed in the shadows of night, we cannot see it at all. We can see only the part that is lit with golden sunshine. When the moon is full, our side is all in daylight. Then the lunar night begins to creep across, hiding more and more of the moon. Most of the time, part of our side of the moon is in daylight and part is hidden in the shadows of the lunar night.

Students Dig Versatility

By BETH BOYLE
Times University Correspondent

About 400 students heard American folk singer and comedian Fred Thompson perform at the University of Victoria at noon Tuesday.

Accompanying Thompson in the performance sponsored by the university's AMS special events committee was flamenco guitarist Peter Evans.

Both performers are appearing at the Secret coffee house and were introduced by the Secret's manager Tony Else.

Thompson was a great success with the students as he displayed his versatility in romping through a series of humorous and serious songs based on folk music, but performed with the comedian's own particular brand of sly humor.

His tunes on a tiny flamenco ukelele were a special hit with the students who called him back for an encore.

Thompson has just finished a successful run at the "Ice House" in Los Angeles and leaves Victoria Sunday for San Francisco's "Purple Onion."

THE SPORTING LIFE
Character in Depth
Fox Theatre

Britain always produces a fair crop of angry young men and in recent years she has developed a peculiar ability for translating them into the language of the screen.

This, the latest of her angry-young-men movies, is probably the best to date—the penetrating character study of a young football hero who learns by experience that the cheering fans are not much more interested in him personally than they would be in a performing bear.

Not surprisingly, Richard Harris has received an Oscar nomination for his tremendous performance as the footballer whose skill and driving determination make him the hero of a drab North of England town.

Yet he fails tragically to establish an honest relationship with the woman he loves, a self-accusing landlady whose emotions have been almost stifled by grief.

By grim persistence he overcomes her fear and resentment to the point where they become lovers of a sort, but no more. Relations between them vary with her moods and the wedding of a football teammate touches off a series of feuds which ultimately separate them. Rachel Roberts' performance as the widow is magnificently controlled and well worthy of the Oscar nomination which she, too, has received.

The direction by Lindsay Anderson is notable for close attention to detail and many subtle effects derived from a deep insight into the story. The football sequences are so graphic you feel you are actually participating and sharing the frenzied anxieties of the players.

Richard Harris dominates the film as the egotistic-footballer but there are some first-rate supporting performances, notably those of Alan Badel as one of the backers of the team and Vanda Godsell as his acquisitive wife.

CHANGES TACTICS

Professor New Lawyer For Ruby

DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Hubert Winston Smith, Jack Ruby's new head legal counsel, indicates he will pursue new lines of defence in seeking to reverse Ruby's death sentence.

Smith, 56, director of the University of Texas law school's Law-Science Institute, was introduced Tuesday night as chief defence lawyer by Mrs. Eva Grant, Ruby's sister.

A graduate of Harvard's law and medical schools, Smith said he entered the case, without fees, to see that "every relevant issue" of the Ruby case was examined scientifically by "the best medical and legal aid available."

He first met Ruby Tuesday, but said he had kept up with the trial through another defence lawyer, Joe Tonahill. Ruby was convicted March 14 of slaying Lee Harvey Oswald, president Kennedy's accused assassin, and sentenced to death after a month-long trial.

Ruby's family dismissed Melvin Belli of San Francisco, their chief lawyer, after his criticism of Dallas and the verdict. A Houston lawyer, Percy Foreman, accepted the case but quit four days later after what he called differences of opinion between himself and the Ruby family.

SEEK NEW TRIAL

Smith, who grew up in Dallas, said he will ask a new trial on the basis district Judge Joe B. Brown erred in not transferring the Ruby trial outside of Dallas. Smith said the Dallas jurors "in some degree expressed the community sentiment" of what he called "gloom and dishonor" from president Kennedy's assassination. He said Ruby could have got a "less dispassionate" trial elsewhere.

The stocky, grey-haired lawyer has spent his professional life dedicated to integrating law and science in practical application. He said he believes he can compile enough scientific evidence that Ruby's killing Oswald was not murder with malice "even to convince this Dallas jury."

He indicated he would put less emphasis on brain-wave tests as the main proof that Ruby suffers from a rare form of psychomotor epilepsy.

Smith will be assisted in the defence team by the original trial lawyers, Joe Tonahill of Jasper, Tex., and Phil Burtleton of Dallas. He said he was good friends with both.

Anti-Hanging Bill Approved To Death

OTTAWA (CB) — Hubert Badanal, parliamentary secretary to Immigration Minister Tremblay, said in the Commons Tuesday he favors a free vote on the question of abolishing the death penalty for convicted murderers.

But he debated the subject long enough to talk out a New Democratic Party bill aimed at abolishing hanging for murderers.

The bill was introduced by Reid Scott (NDP-Toronto Danforth) who said life imprisonment is just as effective and not as drastic as the death penalty.

By talking until the end of the hour-long period devoted to debate on private member's bills Tuesday, Mr. Badanal prevented a vote on the capital punishment bill. It moves now to the bottom of a long list of private member's bills, with little chance of coming up for debate again this session.

U.S. Chain Stores Set Merger Plans

NEW YORK (AP) — Two major department store chains — Bullock's Inc. and Federated Department Stores Inc. — have announced tentative plans to merge.

Federated operates 60 stores in 12 states. Established in 1928, its 1962 sales exceeded $360,000,000.

Bullock's, founded in 1906 has annual sales of about $196,000,000.

THREE DEAD IN SINKING OF FISH BOAT

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A fishing boat overturned today while approaching an Atlantic Ocean inlet near Palm Beach, Fla.

First reports to the Miami Coast Guard said three persons died, six were missing and 11 were picked up by rescue craft.

Fears were expressed that the missing persons were trapped under the 65-foot hull of the fishing boat Two Georges.

The information was radioed to Miami Coast Guard search and rescue headquarters from the scene, off Boynton Inlet, where the party boat tipped over inbound.

Racial Violence Continues

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Flames and gunfire crackled in sections of this tense seaport for the second night Tuesday, harshly punctuating racial violence which has killed one person and injured a dozen others.

Fires broke out in several Negro areas. Shotgun charges splattered a school building and a police car.

Rocks and bottles struck several autos, injuring at least one motorist.

Heavily reinforced police details rounded up more than 100 Negroes during the night, raising the total arrests to nearly 350 since Monday's outbreak of violence climaxed several weeks of anti-segregation demonstrations.

More than 20 Negroes and two white youths were charged with carrying firearms. Two Negroes had firebombs.

At least three blazes were attributed to firebombs. Firemen answered about 50 calls—40 of them false alarms.

SEVEN WERE INJURED

At least seven persons were injured during the day and night in various incidents.

Shortly after midnight police reported 74 cases on the court docket. Charges included vandalism, damage to private property, disorderly conduct, possession of firearms and fire bombs, vagrancy and prowling. The collection of weapons seized included several pistols and rifles and a wide variety of knives.

Building Will Obscure St. Paul's

LONDON (UPI)—A throng of nearly 1,000 persons jammed the steps of St. Paul's Cathedral today to protest plans to erect a modern office building which will partially obscure the front of the world-famed church.

A nationwide controversy has erupted over the new building, which is already under construction. But the government has refused to do anything about halting the work, even though when finished the new structure will mar the view of Christopher Wren's great masterpiece of church architecture.

Today's demonstrators carried placards proclaiming such slogans as "admirers of Christopher Wren" and "Save St. Paul's."

Labor party peer Lord Walton told the cheering throng that he would bring the matter up in the House of Lords this afternoon. He called on the government to "leave some amenities" in London.

But the government already has refused to do anything about the 90-foot-tall, eight-story building that will hide the cathedral's western facade—ironically after 12,000 pounds ($33,600) has just been spent cleaning two centuries of London soot and grime from it.

FIREMEN HACK THEIR WAY through roof to get at fire that gutted top floor of City View Apartments, 2640 Cook, this morning. The building, set on a hill, is close to the Protestant Orphanage and from a distance the fire made some people think it was the Orphanage that was ablaze. Cause of the fire, which did about $10,000 damage, is thought to be sparks from a heap of burning rubbish. See story, Page 21. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Family Felled By Gas Fumes?

COLEMAN, Alta. (CP)—Carbon-monoxide poisoning was the cause of the death of at least one of Mayor John Ostash's three children, Coroner F. S. Radford said today.

Coroner Radford said Edward Ostash, 18, who was found dead in the family home Tuesday, died of the odorless gas. Investigation was continuing into the cause of the death of Mary Jane, 12, who died Tuesday in hospital, and Allan, 15, who died in hospital today.

Mayor Ostash, 42, and his wife, Marie, 37, were both in serious condition in hospital. A sixth member of the family, Noella, four months, was in hospital at the time of the tragedy.

Coroner Radford said it was not known where the carbon-monoxide originated. At first it was believed the family was felled by food poisoning.

Tuesday night Mr. Ostash, his wife and Allan were given an anti-toxin for botulism, a rare disease in which a powerful toxin is produced by bacteria which contaminate food prior to canning.

Edmund Corson, 49, police chief in the Crownsnest Pass town 70 miles west of Lethbridge, discovered the tragedy. He climbed in the back window of the Ostash home after being told the mayor had not opened a hotel he operates, the mayor's home telephone was off the hook, nobody answered the door and the mayor's car was parked in front of the house.

Chief Corson said there was a musty smell in the Ostash home when he entered and that his head became "cloudy" when he remained indoors for a short time. He said the family's natural gas furnace was to be checked today by a gas inspector.

Coleman, with a population of about 2,000, is the second largest community in the Crownsnest area. Major industries supporting the town are two coal mines, a natural gas processing plant and a sulphur plant.

Bank Worker Identifies Wasylenchuk

SEATTLE (UPI)—A woman bookkeeper who was in the Greenwood branch of the Seattle First National Bank when it was robbed 10 years ago, today identified John Wasylenchuk as one of the bandits.

Mrs. Mary Kennedy of Seattle pointed out Wasylenchuk as he sat at the defence table with his attorneys. Asked if she saw anyone in the courtroom whom she identified as one of the bandits, Mrs. Kennedy said "the man in the red necktie" and she pointed to Wasylenchuk who was wearing a tie of that color. She also identified a picture of Clifford Dawley of Victoria who also has been accused in connection with the robbery.

Royal City Bank Raided

NEW WESTMINSTER (UPI)—A lone bandit today escaped with between $900 and $1,000 in an armed holdup at a branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia here.

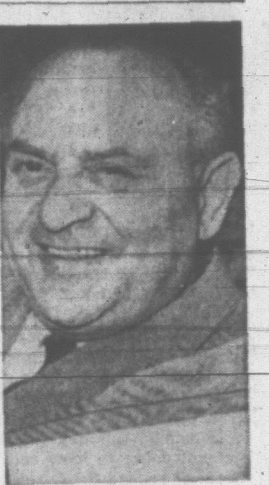

The bandit entered the bank and forced manager John Adams Hackett and three tellers into the rear of the building. Then he ordered teller Mrs. June Beauchamp to hand over the money.

He took the cash in a bank bag and ran out the door brandishing a nickel-plated, snub-nosed .38-calibre revolver.

'Safety Campaigns A Menace'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The minister of highways for British Columbia says safety campaigns "are not only a bore, they are a menace."

And nothing gets his dander up more than slow drivers. Philip Gagliardi, here on a tourist promotion trip, said in an interview Tuesday:

"The fast driver is the safe driver because he is more alert. Lowering speed limits tends to create accidents, raising the limit prevents them," he said.

"Safety campaigns scare the timid and emotionalize danger. Newspapers dramatize the big holiday weekends and death tolls when probably there are fewer accidents per miles driven than any other time."

"Policemen drag out their radar on the big weekends and catch a few hundred drivers going five or 10 miles over the limit and pack-up and leave."

"It burns me up to get a ticket like that."

"Yes, I've got them before," he said. "Six, I think. He's tried to talk his way out of a ticket, but 'when they find out who I am, they are more determined than ever to give me one.'"

HE'LL SEE IT WITH EVERYONE ELSE—TONIGHT

Sally Ann Head Blasts CBC Play

TORONTO (CP)—W. Wycliffe Booth, Salvation Army commissioner and president of the Canadian Council of Churches, said today the television play The Open Grave is "apparently an abhorrent, nightmarish treatment of a sacred theme."

He said in a statement the play, to be shown on CBC television tonight, is "repulsive, degrading and an offence to Christians for whom the passion and death of the Lord Jesus Christ is at the heart of their religious experience."

The CBC announced in Ottawa Tuesday that it would present the play as scheduled, despite protests from clergymen. Mr. Booth said he had been flooded with complaints about the program.

"The artistic licence allowed the CBC by the citizens it serves does not, and must never be allowed to, extend to the profaning of religious sensitivities," he said. Top executives of the CBC took a look at the play Tuesday afternoon and later issued a statement saying the television drama "is in no way sacrilegious" and would go on as scheduled.

It is to be shown at 9:30 p.m. tonight on the English TV network.

CBC president Alphonse Ouimet said the special viewing was held to determine the program's suitability for TV and for showing during Holy Week.

"It is the corporation's opinion that the production is suitable on both counts," Mr. Ouimet reported. "It is an allegorical production, which the corporation believes will prove acceptable to most thoughtful Christians."

'Sa grave situation when people can make an open an' shut case agin a play they haven't seen yet. See where silver dollars are goin' out of style—can't say I ever knew they were in. Phil's still flyin' the flag—black an' white checker-board, that is.

Elderly Women Escape Blaze

$10,000 Damage To Suites

Fire this morning ripped through the upper floors of a big old city apartment block but two elderly women inside escaped unhurt.

Two truck drivers shortly after 11 a.m. saw smoke pouring out of City View Apartments, 2640 Cook Street, and raced inside to give the alarm.

They ushered out Mrs. K. W. Christensen and Mrs. Elizabeth Bennett and then ran from door to door to check if there were other tenants in the block.

The fire gutted the unused attic of the building and ripped off the roof.

Fire Chief John Abbott estimated total damage at about $10,000.

Chief Abbott said the blaze was probably started by sparks from a heap of burning rubbish in the grounds. The ashes of the small bonfire were still hot when firemen examined them.

Chief Abbott said this morning's strong winds must have carried the hot ashes up into the roof of the stucco building.

The blaze was raging when firemen arrived and they immediately called for reinforcements.

Oak Bay and Saanich fire departments were alerted in case their help was needed.

OFF-DUTY CALL

Four city rigs quickly brought the fire under control. Extra firemen who were off-duty were called in to help.

The fire was contained in the top floor and the roof although ceilings of the second-floor apartments were damaged and water seeped down through the building.

Most of the tenants were working at the time. The building contained seven suites.

The alarm was turned in by Dennis White, 3417 1/2 Seymour, and Dick Vanderhoof, 1122 Chapman, who were driving past on Cook Street and saw smoke pouring out.

INSURED

The building is owned by two naval fire-fighters, Bob and Bruce Lindal. They said it is fully covered by insurance.

City View Apartments is across the street from the Protestant Orphanage and many who saw the smoke from a distance thought at first the orphanage was ablaze.

Several persons telephoned authorities offering to put up any of the children at the orphanage.

Woman Doctor Robbed of $200

A woman doctor was robbed of $200 while she attended a case in the maternity wing of Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday night.

Two youths were seen taking a wallet and a bag containing drugs from the car of Dr. I. F. Destrube. The thieves threw the bag away after being chased by Ken Dueck, 1260 Haultain. It was recovered with the drugs still intact.

Therapists Need Volunteer Aid

Volunteer aides are urgently needed to assist physiotherapists with the treatment of arthritic patients at the clinic in St. Joseph's Hospital.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society are asking for volunteers to donate a few hours of their time every other week to help the society meet the need of its case-load.

THREE MORE CANDIDATES have announced they will enter Victoria Jaycees' Miss Victoria pageant May 11-15 at Memorial Arena. Pictured above are two Oak Bay High School students Gillian Macgregor (left), 21 Olympia and Lori Middle, 1860 Adanac. Both 17-year-olds decided last spring to enter the contest. Gillian made her public dancing debut last year in "Crazy Capers" and Lori has had some modelling experience. In photo at right is 21-year-old Tisha Richard, 6628 West Saanich Road, a secretary for Montreal Trust. Tisha enjoys sewing and painting and expects to have "quite a lot of fun" the week of the pageant. This brings to four the number of contestants eyeing the "queen" title.

MONTREAL TRES BON!

'Genuine Frenchmen' Excite Daff Queen

Reporting Tuesday that she had arrived in Montreal, Victoria's Daffodil Queen Jan Laidlaw tells Times readers today of her experiences in the French-Canadian city. The 18-year-old University of Victoria education student, touring Canada to publicize her home city, had a full schedule ranging from a visit to children in hospital to an after-dinner chat with two Parisians who had some quaint ideas about Victoria.

Here's another letter from Queen Jan:

By JAN LAIDLAW

Today I got my first real look at Montreal. Tres bon. The city is so quaint with its mixture of new and old. I was fascinated by the well dressed women of Montreal and was thankful for my gifts from the Mayfair merchants.

This morning was beautiful and I began it by viewing the city from Westmount. Mr. Hildred, TCA public relations official, and his photographer met us and we went to the Montreal Sick Children's Hospital where I gave out daffodils. The children were darling and it would have warmed any heart to see the expressions on their faces.

After dinner I window shopped along Sherbrooke Street looking at all the side-walk boutiques. Because it had been a busy day and I was very tired I returned to my hotel room in the Mount Royal.

APARTMENT-LIKE outlines of Uvic's first residences take shape near Sinclair Road at Gordon Head campus. Each building will accommodate 75 single women and will be within short walk of any other building on the campus. Ultimately, a cluster

First 5-Year Agreement Signed by Plumbers Here

Plumbers and contractors here ratified a five-year agreement today—the first five-year contract ever to be signed in the history of Victoria unions.

The new contract, effective April 1, will provide a wage increase of 94 cents an hour spread over a five-year period. Every six months for the first 18 months there will be an increase of eight cents an hour and 10 cents an hour every six months thereafter.

"This is the first time we have finalized an agreement before expiry date of the old agreement, which is the result of better understanding between labor and management," said Tom Wheatley, business agent for the Plumbers' Union, Local 324.

Contractors have also agreed to make a contribution towards a mechanical trade promotional fund which will do much to promote the plumbers' trade. President of the union Harry Elsdon said the fund will be used for national advertising, training of apprentices and journeymen and paying for renewal of licences for all employees.

WIDE RANGE

In general it will promote the mechanical contracting industry and will cover every aspect of public, consumer, school and adult education in respect to good sanitation.

Employers have agreed to contribute to the fund two cents an hour for every employee from April 1, to Oct. 1 of this year; four cents an hour from Oct. 1 to April 1, 1965, and six cents an hour for the remainder of the five years.

The new agreement will affect only slightly more than 50 per cent of the members as the others are still on strike at the shipyards after trying to negotiate an acceptable agreement for nearly eight months, said Mr. Elsdon.

The money orders were taken in a break-in overnight Monday at A & B Hardware, 650 Burnside West.

The thieves took with them a money order perforator and a sub-post office stamp—the tools necessary for forging the postal orders.

The post office was reported earlier today as saying the money orders are worthless. But an official later agreed they could be cashed if the thieves used the perforator and the stamp and had identification to back up the name used for a payee.

Saanich police warned merchants to be particularly on the lookout for 67 notched money orders numbered B 60567934 to B 60568000 inclusive.

Life saving services and help to disaster victims will have to be stopped unless the Red Cross fund campaign reaches its $80,500 objective.

Campaign chairman Brig. S. E. Morris said the drive is behind last year's pace, but he still hopes to reach the goal.

To date $30,243, has been collected, less than half the objective with less than a week remaining in the campaign.

HMCS Beacon Hill, Antigonish and St. Therese will be returning home from a training cruise to South America Thursday and are scheduled to dock at 2 p.m.

Relatives and friends of returning seamen will be admitted into HMC Dockyard at 1 p.m. to welcome them home.

The frigates, under the command of Captain D. S. Boyle, visited four countries on the cruise. Ports of call included San Diego, Manzanillo and Acapulco in Mexico, Valparaiso in Chile and Callao, Peru.

Purpose of the cruise was the training of 40 junior officers who are enrolled under the short service officer plan.

Victoria donors gave 234 pints of blood at Tuesday's Blood Donor clinic held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street.

Today the clinic is being held at Work Point Barracks. Thursday it will return to Red Cross House between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. and 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Seaward firings will be carried out Friday to Monday by Westminister Regiment, Canadian Militia, from Albert Head Camp and Mary Hill.

Cloverdale School's 50th anniversary celebration has been deferred for a while—planners discovered it is only 47 years since the school was founded.

CIVIL SERVANTS DECLINE TO RE-UNITE WITH LABOR

British Columbia civil servants have voted to remain out of the B.C. Federation of Labour.

B.C. Government Employees' Association voted 53 per cent against reuniting with the province-wide labor body, BCGEA general secretary Ab Kemp reported. He did not reveal how many of the 9,000 members cast ballots.

The BCGEA pulled out of the federation in 1960 after Premier Bennett revoked the union's checkoff privileges. The BCGEA was told this was done because it was affiliated with a group that was involved in partisan politics.

The B.C. Federation of Labour publicly endorses the New Democratic Party as the political arm of labor.

$1,500 Pay Boost Sought at Uvic To Stop Brain Drain

Salary increases of at least $1,500 each are sought by faculty members at University of Victoria during the coming academic year.

The university Faculty Association made requests in a brief now under consideration by the board of governors.

A member of faculty said measures must be taken to stem the "brain drain" to more lucrative fields in the United States.

Physical and academic growth of a university depends on availability of high-ranking staff that must receive attractive salaries, he said.

Salaries should start at $6,500 for instructors, compared with no floor today, the brief said.

Next level of pay for instructors should be $7,000 rather than $5,000; assistant professors should rise from $7,000 to $9,000; associate professors from $9,000 to $11,000 and full professors from $12,000 to $14,000.

This would "allow us to compete directly with other universities in Canada and with comparable institutions in the United States. These figures seem to us not merely advisable but necessary," the brief states.

$100,000 FUND

It is also suggested a substantial sum, around $100,000, be earmarked in the next annual budget for merit increments and promotions, redressing inequities and raise in-rank median salaries.

Third recommendation is for a thorough review of each faculty member's position so the whole question of merit and promotion may be reassessed. The supply of university teachers is shrinking and the university must not only retain the staff it has, but attract the ablest men and women possible to maintain standards and morale of its faculty, the brief declares.

SAANICH GETS DOG LAW

Cat Surplus Blamed On High Cost of Vets

A central Saanich councillor Monday blamed high costs of veterinary services for some of the municipality's animal nuisance problems.

Coun. Ray Lamont said most people can't afford to pay veterinary fees for spaying cats and so dump the unwanted kittens in the municipality.

"This seems to be the favorite municipality for discarding unwanted animals," he said. "Hundreds of kittens and cats are left loose on roadsides and in fields."

TOO HIGH

He felt the problem could be solved if veterinarians lowered their fees which, he claimed, are much too high.

The councillor criticized veterinary fees after council gave third reading to a dog bylaw to control unwanted animals in the municipality.

It was drawn up as the result of complaints from residents and farmers that too many dogs are running wild in the municipality.

Under the bylaw, dog licences will cost $4 for male and spayed female dogs, and $10 for unspayed females.

Coun. C. W. Mollard suggested that the licence fee for males that have not been neutered be the same as for unspayed females.

"It's the male dogs who cause most of the damage," he said. "Why this discrimination?"

Reeve R. Gordon Lee said if

Who, me???

the proposal was approved he would want to "be out-of-town for a week or two."

"You would have hundreds of residents protesting at your door," he said. "Most people have male dogs. It would mean that they would each have to spend as much as $30 to have their dogs neutered."

"As I was saying," added Coun. Lamont, "if the vets lowered their fees most people would be able to afford to have their animals neutered."

Council decided to again consider raising the fee for unneutered dogs next year.

"We will give this present bylaw a trial first," said Coun. Lamont.

Lansdowne Revision Indicated

University of Victoria development board is revising its plan for the rezoning, subdivision and sale of 27 undeveloped acres of Lansdowne campus.

Development manager Floyd Fairclough said today that plans—still confidential—would probably be acceptable to all parties concerned, including citizens of the university district opposed to apartment development.

Application for rezoning the major part of the land for apartment purposes is before Oak Bay council, which has heard protests from citizens in the North-Lansdowne area.

Alternate use of the land could be for exclusive residential development of the nature of Uplands, retaining the wooded natural parkland surrounding building sites.

The land lies partly on the gradual southeast slope of Mount Tolmie.

Mr. Fairclough Tuesday night recommended to Oak Bay zoning and planning committee and St. Philip's Church representatives that no decisions be made for about two weeks.

The church wants to build on a part of the undeveloped land east of Foul Bay Road.

It was proposed last week that this part of the Lansdowne campus be developed for church and private single dwellings.

The larger tract opposite could then be divided into parcels of about two acres each, on which single apartments of up to six stories could be erected.

Israelites Meet

Victoria and District British Israel Association will meet next Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in Newstead Hall, 734 Fort St.

Victoria donors gave 234 pints of blood at Tuesday's Blood Donor clinic held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort Street.

Today the clinic is being held at Work Point Barracks. Thursday it will return to Red Cross House between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 p.m. and 7 and 9:30 p.m.

Seaward firings will be carried out Friday to Monday by Westminister Regiment, Canadian Militia, from Albert Head Camp and Mary Hill.

Cloverdale School's 50th anniversary celebration has been deferred for a while—planners discovered it is only 47 years since the school was founded.

Preparations were virtually completed for the reunion event next month and dozens of ex-pupils had been in touch with the committee.

But just wait until 1967.

Topics of the Day

New system of towing away illegally parked cars during the rush hours should be inaugurated April 1, the city's advisory committee on traffic recommended today.

A contract with Victoria Super Service Towing Limited has been negotiated for the service since its bid was selected after a tender call several months ago.

If city council Thursday ratifies the contract, police will be able to call the company to tow-away cars parked in prohibited zones during the 4 to 5:30 p.m. period.

Violators of the prohibition would have to pay a fine, towing charge and any applicable storage fees to get their cars back.

Purchasing Agents of B.C. will hold their annual joint meeting with the B.C. Products Bureau of the Vancouver Board of Trade April 1 at 6:15 p.m. in the Oak Bay Beach Hotel.

After-dinner speaker will be T. L. Sturgess, deputy minister of trade and commerce.

Vancouver Island chess champion Olavi Sarakannas is still in the lead in the city championship tournament with Charles Birch in second place and Karl Loeschnik and Jim Hobson tied for third.

Al Holznacht won two games, Jim Hobson won one and Charles Birch and Karl Loeschnik drew a game in this week's play.

In the club championship tournament Cliff Woodcock and Alan Lane each won a game and Dr. O. Olson and Martin Schulz made a draw.

Snow on up-Island roads has forced Victoria Motor Sports Club to postpone its Dapedo rally scheduled for Sunday.

In its place an autocross, a timed field trial, will be held at Butler Bros. gravel pit, off Keating Rd., starting at 11:30 a.m.

Ask The Times

Q.—Does any country have television telephones?—M.S.

A.—Television telephones, a device whereby you can see the person you are talking to, are still in the experimental stage and have not been developed for commercial use.

Lecturers in universities in the eastern United States have been using telephones associated with closed-circuit television to talk to many classrooms at once.

Q.—How long was Clement Attlee Prime Minister of Britain?—T.T.

A.—From 1945 to 1951.

MRS. TOBIN'S DEATH SEVERS LINK WITH PAST She Knew Victoria When Fairfield Was Farmfields

Another link with Victoria's past was severed Tuesday by the death of Mrs. Mary Ann Tobin, in her 91st year.

In failing health for the past few months, she died in her sleep in her home at 114 St. Andrews Street.

The fifth child in a family of 13, and the first of them to be born in Victoria, Mrs. Tobin was the daughter of John Cox and Minnie Gillan. Her father came to the coast as a youth with the Royal Engineers on the historic Thames City in 1839. Her mother arrived three years later as a teenager aboard the brideship Tyne-mouth to live with the family of Archdeacon H. P. Wright, the first Archdeacon of Columbia.

They were married by the Archbishop in Holy Trinity Church, New Westminster, in 1863, when the Royal Engineer contingent was disbanded. For 10 years they made their home in Sapperton, before coming to Victoria.

Mrs. Tobin often recalled her childhood in the family home on Fairfield Road in what is now cemetery property, attending Central School, driving to town in a buggy to shop, and playing in the woods and farmlands of Fairfield.

Highlights were visits to Indian dances on the Songhees Reserve, canoe trips up the Gorge, and horse-drawn tallyho rides to Foul Bay for Sunday school picnics. She was a lifelong member of the Reformed Episcopal Church of Our Lord, Humboldt and Blanshard Streets.

Mrs. Tobin was known to hundreds of Victorians through her long association with Clay's Bakery, Fort Street, owned by her husband, Arthur H. Tobin, who predeceased her in 1946.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Leon Borde, a daughter, Kathleen, a son, Brian, and four grandchildren, all of Victoria. Funeral arrangements are being made by Hayward's B.C. Funeral Co. for 3:30 p.m. Thursday at the Church of Our Lord.

U.S. SEEKS TO PREVENT STRAY PLANES

WASHINGTON (AP)—New regulations have been put into effect tightening control of U.S. military plane flights into the NATO area of Europe with the aim of reducing the chance of accidental overflights into Communist territory, it was learned today.

Defence sources disclosed last week that a new positive radar control system, by which each plane can be tracked individually throughout a flight in the zone, would be a primary feature.

Sally Ann Head Blasts CBC Play

TORONTO (CP)—W. Wycliffe Booth, Salvation Army commissioner and president of the Canadian Council of Churches, said today the television play, "The Open Grave" is "apparently an abhorrent, nightmarish treatment of a sacred theme."

He said in a statement the play, to be shown on CBC television tonight, is "repulsive, degrading and an offence to Christians for whom the passion and death of the Lord Jesus Christ is at the heart of their religious experience."

Racial Violence Continues

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Flames and gunfire crackled in sections of this tense seaport for the second night Tuesday, harshly punctuating racial violence which has killed one person and injured a dozen others.

Fires broke out in several Negro areas. Shotgun charges splattered a school building and a police car.

Rocks and bottles struck several autos, injuring at least one motorist.

Heavily reinforced police details rounded up more than 100 Negroes during the night, raising the total arrests to nearly 350 since Monday's outbreak of violence climaxed several weeks of anti-segregation demonstrations.

More than 20 Negroes and two white youths were charged with carrying firearms. Two Negroes had firebombs.

At least three blazes were attributed to firebombs. Firemen answered about 50 calls—40 of them false alarms.

SEVEN WERE INJURED

At least seven persons were injured during the day and night in various incidents.

Shortly after midnight police reported 74 cases on the court docket. Charges included vandalism, damage to private property, disorderly conduct, possession of firearms and fire bombs, vagrancy and prowling.

The collection of weapons seized included several pistols and rifles and a wide variety of knives.

Bank Worker Identifies Wasylenchuk

(See story Page 38)

SEATTLE (UPI)—A woman bookkeeper who was in the Greenwood branch of the Seattle First National Bank when it was robbed 10 years ago, today identified John Wasylenchuk as one of the bandits.

Mrs. Mary Kennedy of Seattle pointed out Wasylenchuk as he sat at the defence table with his attorneys. Asked if she saw anyone in the courtroom whom she identified as one of the bandits, Mrs. Kennedy said—"the man in the red necktie" and she pointed to Wasylenchuk who was wearing a tie of that color.

She also identified a picture of Clifford Dawley of Victoria who also has been accused in connection with the robbery.

FIREMEN HACK their way through roof to get at fire that gutted top floor of City View Apartments, 2640 Cook, this morning. The building, set on a hill, is close to the Protestant Orphanage and from a distance the fire made some people think it was the Orphanage that was ablaze. Cause of the fire, which did about $10,000 damage, is thought to be sparks from a heap of burning rubbish. See story, Page 21.

Alberta Family Felled By Fumes From Furnace

COLEMAN, Alta. (CP)—Carbon-monoxide poisoning was the cause of the death of at least one of Mayor John Ostash's three children, Coroner F. S. Radford said today.

Coroner Radford said Edward Ostash, 18, who was found dead in the family home Tuesday, died of the odorless gas. Investigation was continuing into the cause of the death of Mary Jane, 12, who died Tuesday in hospital, and Allan, 15, who died in hospital today.

Mayor Ostash, 42, and his wife, Marie, 37, were both in serious condition in hospital. A sixth member of the family, Noella, four months, was in hospital at the time of the tragedy.

Coroner Radford said it was not known where the carbon-monoxide originated. At first it was believed the family was felled by food poisoning.

Tuesday night Mr. Ostash, his wife and Allan were given

Boost Asked In Subsidies

OTTAWA (CP)—Revival of Canada's merchant marine was called for in a brief presented to the federal cabinet here today by representatives of shipyard workers in British Columbia, Quebec and the Maritimes.

The 100-page brief, printed in both English and French, urged increased federal subsidies on large ship construction to boost employment and to combat foreign competition in the shipping industry.

It recommended that Canada maintain an ocean-going merchant fleet "at least sufficient to carry 40 to 50 per cent of our exports and imports."

J. K. Bell, executive secretary of the Marine Workers Federation, said after the 55-minute meeting with seven cabinet members:

"For the first time, representatives of the federal cabinet saw our problem in a new light. I think they see there is a general awakening among the general public about the possibilities of rebuilding the Canadian merchant marine, and I feel that at least they will seriously look into the problem."

Labor Minister MacEachern said he could assure the delegates "your proposals will receive very serious consideration."

At present, the brief said, the "ocean going dry cargo Canadian-merchant fleet" consists of one ship. This does not include small coastal vessels or Great Lakes carriers.

The brief said that the $452,000,000 originally earmarked by the Federal Government for construction of eight navy frigates, could be used to build 30 bulk carriers with a 25,000-ton carrying capacity. The frigate program was cancelled several months ago in favor of building three Oberon class submarines in Britain.

"In our opinion the building of a Canadian merchant marine would better serve the national interest, both from the point of view of defence and economic health."

It said cancellation of the frigate program is "stark evidence of the impact on employment in Canadian shipyards and of the uncertainty which lies ahead because of lack of planning and the implementation of a truly Canadian naval defence policy which should provide employment for Canadians."

"However, the essential thing

'Safety Campaigns A Menace'

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The minister of highways for British Columbia says safety campaigns "are not only a bore, they are a menace."

And nothing gets his dander up more than slow drivers. Philip Gagliardi, here on a tourist promotion trip, said in an interview Tuesday:

"The fast driver is the safe driver because he is more alert."

"Lowering speed limits tends to create accidents, raising the limit prevents them," he said.

"Safety campaigns scare the timid and emotionalize danger. Newspapers dramatize the big holiday weekends and death tolls when probably there are fewer accidents per miles driven than any other time."

"Policemen drag out their radar on the big weekends and catch a few hundred drivers going five or 10 miles over the limit and pack up and leave."

"It burns me up to get a ticket like that."

Had the minister of highways received a speeding ticket?

"Yes, I've got them before," he said. "Six, I think." He's tried to talk his way out of a ticket, but "when they find out who I am, they are more determined than ever to give me one."

MacArthur Said 'Alert'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur was reported "alert" today and making satisfactory progress in recovery from the shock of two major operations in 17 days.

Col. Donald A. Cameron, executive officer of Walter Reed Army Medical Centre, said: "Gen. MacArthur continues to progress satisfactorily, indicating a better than average post-operative course. He is alert and conversing."
